Mr Bateman—Are not you banded together on the other side.

Mr Bunyan—Thank God. It is time (hear).

A division was then taken, when there voted for Major Rowan as Chairman—Lord Ventry, JP; Sir Henry Donovan, JP; F R Bateman, JP; T C Outo, JP; Pierce Chute, JP; Colonel Crosbie, DL; S M Hussey, JP; Captain Chute, JP; A Blennerhassett, DL; Redmond Roche, JP; D M M'Gillycuddy, JP; E D Stokes, JP; Hon E De Moleyns, JP; Gerard O'Connor, JP; J Hewson, JP; William Craugh Hickie, DL; G A E Hickson, JP; John White Leahy, JP; A E Herbert, JP; E H Foley, JP; John C Neligan, QC, JP; F C Sandes, JP; J E Hussey, JP; Captain M'Gill, JP; George F Trench, JP; and Captain Neligan, JP; Captain R E Palmer, G D Stokes, John Griffin—29.

The following voted for Mr John Kelly—M M Mahon, John Power, Jeremiah Slattery, Henry Knight, Timothy Brosnan, Cornelius Crowley, T. Evans, Denis M Griffin, Eoughnane, Michael Kearney, J E Connor, J Bunyan, Alvan, Moriarty, Horan, Egan, Denis Kane, Thomas O'Connor, Ballymacquin, Cotter, Thomas O'Connor, Ballyegan; G Fleming, James Roche, John Stack, Kerry Kane, Michael Stack, and Pat O'Sullivan—26.

Did not vote—Major Rowan, Mr John Kelly, and Myles Cronin.

Mr Kelly objected to Captain M'Gill, Captain Neligan, Mr Collis Sandes, Mr John Hussey, and Mr George Hickson voting, as they were not elected ex-officio guardians.

Mr Thomas O'Connor objected to Mr Trench.

The Clerk said if the objections were handed in in writing, they would be considered. For the present he declared Major Rowan elected.

Mr George D Stokes then proposed Mr Redmond Roche as vice-chairman.

Capt Palmer seconded the motion.

Mr Jeremiah Slattery proposed that Mr P D Kenny, now in Kilmainham prison, be elected vice-chairman.

Mr Power seconded the nomination.

A division was then taken, when those in the majority in the last division with Major Rowan supported Mr Roche.

The former minority, with the exception of Thomas O'Connor, of Ballyegan, voted for Mr P D Kenny.

Mr Redmond Roche, Thomas O'Connor, Ballyegan, and Myles Cronin, did not vote.

The Chairman then declared Mr Roche elected, the numbers being the same as before—29 for Mr Roche, and 26 for Mr Kenny.

Sir Henry Donovan said he had much pleasure in proposing, as Deputy Vice Chairman, Mr William Coffey, T.C. He thought all would agree in considering Mr Coffey one of the best and straightforward men in the bar. His kindness to the poor inmates in the house had endeared him to them. In fact if they had votes he (Sir Henry) knew they would vote for William Coffey before any member of that Board. He attended the meetings day after day, and he might say night after night. He might allude to the fact of Mr Coffey's great kindness to the nuns in the house, and he thought that should be a reason why they would be unanimous. If they alluded the interest of the ratepayers they would be unanimous in electing Mr Coffey, and he believed they would.

Mr George D. Stokes seconded the motion.

Mr John Kelly rose to propose Mr Michael M'Mahon, a gentleman who was well able to occupy the position of Deputy Vice Chairman.

MISS PARNELL IN KATURK.

SPEECH OF FATHER M'MAHON

On Sunday last Miss Parnell was accorded a magnificent reception in Kanturk:—

Rev. M. M'Mahon, P.P., who on coming forward was received with great cheering, said—Ladies of the Land League, and brethren of the Land League, the honour is done me of proposing a vote of thanks, at this imposing and magnificent demonstration, to our noble and distinguished visitor—Miss Parnell—and it is a task which I undertake with gratification and pride. You have done well in coming together in your thousands to mark your appreciation of her zeal, and her services in your cause (cheers). Miss Parnell is entitled to every proof you can give her of gratitude and respect, as the sister of Charles Stuart Parnell—(great cheering)—that man of destiny whom Providence has raised up to be the emancipator and the saviour of our Irish serfs, and as herself, the able and indefatigable foundress of the Ladies' Land League (cheers). The Land League, it is needless to say, has met and defeated the exterminator and relieved his victims. It has put an end to the old stripped, demoralizing, and ruinous land grabbing. It has, by its action on rent, saved the great body of our tenant farmers from certain and immediate beggary and kept a roof over them. It has brought strength and spirit to a trampled, plundered, and despairing people. It has aroused them to a full consciousness of their dignity as men, and of their rights as toilers. It has carried confusion and dismay into the ranks of their heartless old masters; and it has brought their cause to that stage, that its final and complete success cannot be now either distant or doubtful (cheers). The Ladies' Land League is a most efficient supplement to the original body. It will, as an organization, entrench itself in the heart of every household, and it will thus give it a cohesion, completeness, and purpose, which will render it secure from its enemies—resembling a fold round which, to use the simile of St. Augustine, the wolf prowls in the darkness of night, raging to slay and devour, but afraid to enter—“lupus fremens, lupus tremens, sed, semper, lupus” (cheers). If we substitute “landlord” for “lupus” the analogy will be perfect—a raging landlord, a quaking landlord—but always a landlord in reference to the Land League, and the people it guards. While this will be the wholesome collateral effect of the Ladies' Land League, their immediate and direct work will be, as an association of charity specially called for by the requirements of the time. The want it has to meet, unlike distress in towns and cities, which is relieved by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, by convents, and by public institutions, has no other resource to fall back upon. The want is the result of our execrable landlaws, and is to be found among the victims of extermination by the roadside, on the bleak hill-side, or among those who are incarcerated on their account. For those there is neither charitable society, religious body, or public institution, to make provision. Outside the workhouse or the prison allowance, their reliance must be on the ministrations of the Ladies' Land League. It was hoped that there would be an end to the need for these services of theirs. There had been a lull in the usual landlord operations, from which a new era of security, harmony, and peace, between landlord and tenant, was fondly anticipated (cheers). But there are ominous indications ahead, that in Ireland

FRIDAY MARCH 31

TRALEE BOARD OF GUARDIANS—WEDNES-

DAY.

The usual weekly meeting of the Board was held here to-day.

There was an unusually large meeting of guardians including ex-officio, owing to the fact that there was to be a contest in the appointment of chairman and vice chairman for the ensuing year.

Mr Stokes (the clerk) occupied the chair pending the election of officers.

The guardians present were—Sir Henry Donovan, J.P.; G E Hickson, J.P.; S M Hussey, J.P.; Daniel De C M Gillycuddy, J.P.; W J N. Ligan, J.P.; J E Massey, J.P.; A E Herbert, J.P.; G F Trench, J.P.; J W Leahy, J.P.; W O Hickey, J.P.; G O'Connor, J.P.; E D Stokes, J.P.; M J E Hussey, J.P.; A Blennerhassett, J.P.D.L.; Fiersa Chute, J.P.; F R Bateman, J.P.; F B Chute, J.P.; Capt R Chute, J.P.; Lieutenant Colonel James Crosbie, J.P.D.L.; Capt M C G M GIB, J.P.; C Leahy, J.P.; E Foley, J.P.; Sir M J O'Connell, J.P.; R Fitzgerald, J.P.; Thomas Egan, M M Mahon, D D Keane, J O'Connor, G Fleming, I Moynihan, Aeneas Daly, P Rice, J Bunyan, P Hill, J Moriarty, J Stack, C Crowley, M J Keane, T Brosnan, M Sheehan, P Corcoran, J O'Halloran, T O'Connor, P Sullivan, T Allman, J Power, E Loughnane, J Griffin, E Walsh, T Brosnan, T O'Connor, and M Fitzgerald.

STATE OF THE HOUSE.

Number remaining at the close of the week 764; admitted since 26; discharged 0; died 2; born 2; remaining 772, same period as last year.

CLASSIFICATION OF INMATES.

Males—Able bodied, 127, females, 164; mal. infirm and aged—108; do females, 86 infants and children under two years of age, 47; children above two and under fifteen, 240.

Mr Kearney—Our present chairman, for whom personally I have the greatest respect, is not carrying out our wishes or the wishes of the ratepayers whom the elected guardians represent, and therefore it is that we oppose him. I have great pleasure in seconding the proposal that Mr Kelly, who is an elected member of this board but is at present imprisoned in Armagh gaol.

A Guardian—But not for any crime—(hear, hear).

Mr Kearney—I have said before I have great pleasure in seconding that Mr Kelly be appointed chairman.

A division was then taken with the following result—

For Mr Kelly—Messrs Power, Egan, J Roche, M Mahon, D J Keane, J E O'Connor, Fleming, K Keane, Moynihan, Daly, Bunyan, Rice, Hill, Moriarty, Kenny, Walsh, Kearney, Terence Brosnan, Timothy Brosnan, Sheehan, Corcoran, O'Halloran, Thomas O'Connor, Ballymacquinn, Thomas O'Connor, Ballygan, P O'Sullivan, Oysterhall, Allman, Brick, M Fitzgerald, Patrick S O'Sullivan—29.

For Colonel Rowan—Messrs M'Cowen, Griffin, J Stack, C Leahy, Hickson, M Hussey, Captain Magill, Neligan, J E Hussey, Foley, Trench, Herbert, J W Leahy, Hickie, Hewson, G O'Connor, Sir H Donovan, Stokes, M Gillycuddy, R Roche, Blennerhassett, Capt Chute, S M Hussey, Colonel Crosbie, Sir M J O'Connell, F B Chute, R Fitzgerald, P Chute, F R Bateman, and J E Collis—30.

A dispute of a very animated character occurred between Mr Stokes and several of the rural guardians as to whether the list was called over right.

Col. Rowan said as the Returning Officer disclosed him I cried, he wished to say that he had not sufficient language to thank then all those who supported him as well as those who voted against him (laughter). He said that because he wished to testify to the manner some of the guardians voted against treated him while he was in the chair. While he was in the chair he did not experience anything from them but courtesy.

Mr A E Herbert said he begged to propose that his friend, Mr Redmond Roche, be appointed Vice Chairman. Nobody knew him better than he did—

Mr Kenny—Oh, yes. There are men here who know him as well.

Mr Herbert—All I can say is scarcely—

Mr Kenny—There are men here who know him just as well.

Mr Herbert—For the last two years he has been side by side with me on the Bench at Castleisland, and I never found a more—

Mr Kenny—Are you going to say that others don't know him?

Mr Herbert—I am really astonished, I know I won't be allowed to say much, and will conclude by proposing Mr Roche as a fit and proper person to act as Vice Chairman of the Board. I am certain that all who know Mr Roche as well as I do will vote for him.

Capt. Chute said he had great pleasure in seconding Mr Herbert's proposition.

Mr D J Keane proposed that Mr P D Kenry be appointed vice chairman.

Mr Bunyan bore testimony to the zeal, earnestness, ability and patriotism of Mr Kenny, and had great pleasure in seconding Mr Keane's proposition.

On a division there voted for Mr Roche—Messrs R M Cowen, C Leahy, Brick, Hickson, M Hussey, Magill, Neligan, J E Hussey, S E Collis, Foley, Trench, Herbert, J W Leahy, Hickie, Hewson, G O'Connor, Donovan, Stokes, M Gillycuddy, Rowan Blennerhassett, Capt Chute, S M Hussey, Crosbie, O'Connell, P Chute, F B Chute, E Fitzgerald and Bateman—29.

For Mr Kenny—Messrs Egan, M Mahon, D J Keane, J E O'Connor, Fleming, Moynihan, Bunyan, Rice, Hill, Moriarty, J Stack, Kearney, T Brosnan, Sheehan, Corcoran, O'Halloran, T O'Connor (Ballymacquinn) P S O'Sullivan and Allman—19.

Those who had let the room before the poll was taken and did not vote were—Messrs Power, J Roche, K Keane, Daly, Loughnane, Griffin, Walsh, Terence Brosnan, T O'Connor (Ballyegan) and O'Sullivan (Oysterhall)—10.

Mr Roche was then declared elected.

Mr Kenny rose and proposed that Mr Michael M Mahon be elected deputy vice chairman. He was one of the most practical members of the board because he represented the people faithfully. They was new passing into the hands of the people, and it was a very hopeful sign of the landlords when one of their best masters was to be found in the workhouse (laughter and applause). They were the zeal enemies of the people—

Sir Henry Donovan—I don't think you ought say that.

Mr Kenny—Well, perhaps it may be as well withdraw it; but, oh, look to-day, and alas, you find the landlords in the workhouse—(loud laughter). He concluded by proposing Mr M Mahon for the office of Deputy Vice Chairman.

Sir Henry Donovan said he felt much pleasure seconding the appointment of Mr M Mahon. He had met him on many occasions in his capacity of guardian, and was aware he did good work, especially in introducing the Sisters of Mercy into the workhouse (applause).

There being no opposition, Mr M Mahon was declared unanimously elected.

EARTHQUAKE IN HUNGARY.

Pesth, Wednesday Night.

At about 11 o'clock last night an earthquake occurred around the town of Miskolcz. There were many shocks, and so distinctly were they felt in the theatre when the performance was in progress, that a panic ensued, the entire audience rushing in terror towards the outlets. Many were injured, but the damage to the theatre was not serious.

TRALEE BOARD OF GUARDIANS—

A GREAT VICTORY FOR THE POPULAR PARTY.

The usual weekly meeting of the Tralee Board of Guardians was held to-day in the Board-room, Workhouse. As it was the day on which the election of Chairman for next year was to take place considerable public interest was manifested in the proceedings as in the previous elections. At the last two or three elections the National party had struggled hard to elect a chairman holding popular principles, but they were defeated by a small majority. To-day the elected guardians mustered in full force and were determined to elect a chairman, sympathising with the national interests of the people. The ex-officio showed a marked decrease in their numbers, compared with former contests, and the National party had anticipated an easy victory.

The chair was taken at a quarter to one—the hour fixed for the election—by James E. M'Sweeney (assistant clerk).

The ex-officio present were Lord Ventry, Sir Henry Donovan, Captain R R Chute, Lieut.-Colonel Wm. Rowan, Messrs F R Bateman, J.P., Robert Fitzgerald, J.P., F B Chute, J.P., S M Hussey, J.P., J E Hussey, J.P., Arthur Blennerhassett, D.L., E D Stokes, J.P., G A E Hickson, J.P., J W Leahy, J.P., Geo. F Trench, J.P. The elected Guardians were—Messrs. John Kelly, T.O., Robert M'Cowan, T.C., A Daly, M Brick, M M'Mahon, T O'Connor, P Corcoran, H Breen, P Divane, T Egan, P O'Sullivan, (S); Thomas O'Connor, (C); J Bunyan, D J Keane, T Allman, P O'Sullivan, (B); P Hill, T Duggan, M P Kearney, E Walsh, K Keane, P D Kenny, Terence Brosnan, M Sheehan, J Moriarty, J E O'Connor, J Power, M Quinlan, J Griffin, P Rice, J O'Halloran, M Stack, and J Kearney.

Precisely at a quarter to 1 o'clock

Mr T O'Connor rose and said, I rise to propose the Chairman for the ensuing year of this Board, but of course it might fall into better hands than mine to do so—the maintenance of this house is taken into account the guardians will find that by management and strict attention to the carrying out of the law they could to a great extent relieve the burden which the rates, especially—

(Confusion, and cries of time and order.)

Mr. Bateman—Order; give order. He has a perfect right to speak.

Lord Ventry (continuing)—I am not going to detain the Board longer, but I have only to repeat that I think from the manner in which Colonel Rowan has up to the present discharged the duties of the office which he held that the Board ought to be very glad to continue him in the position if he is willing to retain it. Therefore, I beg to propose Colonel Rowan be elected.

Mr S M Hussey—I beg to second it. The taxation is amounting very high, and it is the interest of us to have it kept down.

Mr O'Connor—You, yourself, is a good means of keeping it up. Sending and keeping police where they are not wanting at all.

Mr Hussey, continued; and said that Colonel Rowan thoroughly understood the financial condition and the working of the union and was the only person to work it efficiently.

Mr Kelly—Yes; but he belongs to a class—

Mr Divane—We want a real representative of the people sometimes [hear, hear].

A division was then taken, when there voted for Mr M'Mahon—Messrs M Brick, A Daly, T M'Mahon, T O'Connor, (B); P Corcoran, H Breen, P Divane, T Egan, T O'Connor, (C); P O'Sullivan, (S) J Bunyan, D J Keane, T Allman, P O'Sullivan, (B) P Hill, T Duggan, M P Kearney, E Walsh, P D Kenny, T Brosnan, K Keane, M Sheehan, J Moriarty, J E O'Connor, J Power, M Quinlan, P Rice, J O'Halloran, M Stack—29.

For Lieut. Col Rowan—Lord Ventry, Capt R R Chute, Messrs F B Chute, E D Stokes, S M Hussey, G A E Hickson, J E Hussey, J W Leahy, F R Bateman, G F Trench, R Fitzgerald, A Blennerhassett, J Griffin, R M'Cowan, and Sir Henry Donovan, —15.

Mr Michael M'Mahon was then declared elected by a majority of 14 amidst great cheering from his supporters.

When Mr R Fitzgerald's name was being called, Mr Kelly said he objected to his voting as he was not an acting magistrate in the county, and had therefore no right to vote.

Mr Fitzgerald—It will save me a great deal of trouble.

Clerk—I have no jurisdiction in the matter, but I will refer it to the Local Government Board.

Mr Kelly—I know very well that he voted here last year when he had no right to vote, and I was therefore elected as chairman for the past year. He had no more right to vote no more than I had.

Lord Ventry—Personally. I have no objection to listen to you, but as you are not a guardian of this union I protest most decidedly against any party making debates on this occasion (cries of "order, order.")

When the confusion subsided,

Mr Kelly, (addressing the Clerk) said, as guardian for Blennerville, and "ipse dixit," although his experience was limited he—

Clerk—There is the Act of Parliament and Local Government Board Authority to disqualify you and—

Mr Kelly. I won't take any authority—

Clerk—If I had been such a fool as to get myself into a mess with you as you wanted me to do, I would be in a very nice position—

Mr Kelly—I say this, that you are lending yourself to a clique.

Clerk—Because I am doing my duty which I am doing since I came here.

Mr Kelly—Go on with the business. I retire. Go on, Mr Chairman. If Lord Ventry wants to be obstructionist I don't.

Mr O'Connor, to Lord Ventry—It is over in Westminister you have a right to be watching the land bill [laughter.]

Mr Kelly—A little magistrate can speak here who never handled a poor rate receipt in his life.

Mr Bateman—What right have you to come here doing your bullying?

Mr Kelly—We will change the ex officio [laughter.]

Mr Bateman—You won't change their opinion.

Mr Kelly—It has been changed today.

Mr Divane—There Trenchard [laughter.]

The routine business was then proceeded with. The applications for admission were unimportant.

THE LATE ELECTION OF CLERK.

A letter was read from the Local Government Board sanctioning the appointment of Mr J. G. Stokes as Clerk of the Union.

Another letter was read from Mr R Roche, Magistrate, stating that he would unavoidably be absent from the county for a long time, and he would therefore resign the office of vice Chairman.

Adjourned.

Mr Kelly—What is the clerk doing.
The Clerk—Mr M'Mahon has been proposed and seconded. Is there any other gentleman going to propose any other person.

Lord Ventry—My intention in coming here to-day was—as nobody else did so—to propose that the chairman—the gentleman who held the chair for the last two years should be re-elected to that place. He is not in the room, and therefore I am not in a position to say whether he would undertake the duties of it or not. I understand he is coming and will be here in a few minutes.

Mr O'Connor—The time is up.
Lord Ventry—So I ask the guardians not to get further in the matter for a few minutes (laughter amongst the elected guardians) to enable him to say whether he is willing to undertake the duties or not because I certainly do not wish to put the Board to the trouble of a division or go further with the matter unless Colonel Rowan is willing to discharge the duties which so far as my opinion goes he faithfully performed (hear, hear from the ex officios).

Mr Kelly—I rise as the unreturned representative of Blennerville, and I presume I have a "focus standi" here to-day. I know very well that an effort was made by Colonel Rowan, and others to take advantage of the Act of Parliament, and have me disqualified because I was two days late in paying my rates. I was never asked for—I see no other reason, and as he was such a strict adherent to the Act of Parliament, our duty now is to stick to the law as it stands and do our business (hear hear.) The time is up when a quarter to one arrives and there is no one propose Colonel Rowan. I know not the object save that the ex-officio guardians want to kill time and I ask to have the election of Mr M'Mahon ratified (hear, hear).

Lord Ventry—Under these circumstances and taking the grounds Mr Kelly has thought well to take there is no course for me, but to propose Colonel Rowan as Chairman of this Union of course—

Mr Kelly—His horse will be apt to break down before you are done (laughter).

Lord Ventry—We ought to have ascertained whether he is in a position—

A Guardian—They only want time—(laughter).

Mr Divane—You could safely give him ten hours (laughter).

Mr Kelly—Lord Ventry is welcome to kill time as much as he likes. We are strong enough for them today (hear, hear).

Mr Divane—At the same time the rule must be observed.

Mr Kenny—We are not going to take the other side short. Mr Bateman also asks for ten minutes.

Mr O'Connor—I call question: I have proposed Mr M'Mahon.

VICE-CHAIRMAN.

Mr Kearney—I propose that Mr P D Kenny fill the vice chair of this Board.

Mr T Egan—I second that.

Clerk—Any objection?

There being no objection Mr Kenny was declared vice chairman.

Mr Divane—I propose Mr Thomas O'Connor as deputy vice chairman.

Mr Sullivan seconded it. Passed.

Lord Ventry—Before this vote is recorded I am not going to propose any candidate for either of these offices—vice chairman, or deputy vice chairman—for I should only like to make reference to these selections that have been made, that I hope this time next year when the accounts of the union are come to be looked into, and when the new rate come to be agreed upon, that the guardians will see nothing in the state of the funds of the union, or in the amount of rates they are called upon to pay, to make them regret any decision they came to to-day. We all know that in the working of a union a great deal depends—especially in a large union like this where a great deal of work is to be done—a great deal does depend upon the manner in which the proceedings are conducted, and that while the law does lay down certain limits which any Board cannot exceed, there are many matters within the law which are I may say almost at the mercy of the guardians; and that according as the affairs of the union are ill or well conducted, the ratepayer will have to pay higher or lower rates. If one looked at the list there, and one knows there are over 800 inmates at present in the workhouse, one knows besides that very large number there is out door relief, and I think that any person could not be surprised that the rates are high. I can only say that the chairman and others elected to fill these offices today have before them a very arduous task. They have set their faces to managing the union to a view of doing full justice to the poor, and if they work the union in a view to economy, and retrenchment, I certainly for one shall not put the Board to any trouble after the decided expression of opinion here today; (hear, hear.)

Mr Kelly—I take this opportunity in sharing with Lord Ventry, that the finances of the union will be in a better condition than at present. There is no doubt but this task is a task which the guardians always undertook as far as I am connected with the union, and I see it was the elected guardians who took any interest whatever in the interests of the ratepayers (hear, hear.). He has been speaking of great duties, and if the class he belongs to, put their shoulders to the wheel and come here and attend to the business until this time twelve months the affairs of the union will be in a good condition—(hear, hear.)

Mr Kenny—They could not be in a more hopeless position than at present, because there were two votes last year.

Mr Kelly—The names of 'ex officio' guardians are opposite the elected guardians as the 'mask' representatives of the landlord party (laughter).

Mr M'Mahon, on taking the chair said, that he begged to thank them sincerely for the high honour they had conferred on him, and he hoped that by the assistance of a great many practical guardians and with other assistance to carry out the business of the union properly. They are parting with a fair, honorable, and upright chairman (hear, hear).

is likewise much resorted to, and Frenchmen have a kind of fascination for the place, for there are always a great number of them collected there. The largest take made here this season was on Wednesday last. A Manxman then took 10,000. On Saturday there were several large and important takes. Some of the boats then brought in three to four thousand, and I am told that one boat was so fortunate as to bring in as the result of the night's fishing 6,000 mackerel. Yet, some of the boats came so low as 300. This might be expected, as the number of boats at present exceed fifty, including French Boats. The latter are compelled to stay outside the harbour. The prices for the fish varied considerably during the past week. Early in the week the sellers received as high as £4 15s.; later on the price went down to £2 15s., and on Saturday the mackerel sold on an average 30s. per hundred. There is one very great drawback. The harbour of Smorwick is one of very great peril to the craft engaged in fishing. It is full of sunken rocks, and it requires caution, and the most experienced pilotage to avoid striking on them every time the boats enter or leave it. The attention of the Fishery Board, if there be such an institution or anyone corresponding to it in the care of domestic interests and in the development of national industry, should be directed to its improvement. A small vote judicious—by expending would go a great distance. Another want is that of a quay for landing the fish. Smorwick from time immemorial has been noted for fish. All the farmers in the numerous villages that surround the harbour turn fishermen at certain seasons of the year, and singular as it may appear it is no less the fact that there never has been anything done to aid them or afford facilities for the pursuit. This grand opening into the Atlantic which is known to history and connected—though not very honourably indeed—with the names of Raleigh, Winter, and Grey, remains to this day without a quay and stands a notable instance of the neglect Irish affairs suffer at the hands of a foreign administration. I hope in calling attention to the matter through your influential columns, to appeal even at this late hour with some success for a remedy. The place grows in importance. Two years ago was the first time the Manxmen made it their rendezvous and now quite a fleet crowds its harbour. If owners are discouraged by disasters arising from neglect such as this which can only be covered by the governing authorities we know where the blame shall lie.

NEW YORK HERALD'S STORM WARNING.

London Wednesday.

the Chairman for the ensuing year of this Board, but of course it might fall into better hands than mine to do so—

Several Guardians—You are welcome.
Mr O'Connor—It is time to get a chance here or there against the landlord party, therefore I have much pleasure in proposing that Mr Michael M'Mahon be our Chairman for the ensuing year.
Mr Divane—I have great pleasure in seconding that.

Mr Bunyan—You could not get a better man.
Mr Kenny—None more so,
A short delay for no apparent reason took place.

Mr Kelly—What is the clerk doing.
The Clerk—Mr M'Mahon has been proposed and seconded. Is there any other gentleman going to propose any other person.

Lord Ventry—My intention in coming here today was—as nobody else did so—to propose that the chairman—the gentleman who held the chair for the last two years should be re-elected to that place. He is not in the room, and therefore I am not in a position to say whether he would undertake the duties of it or not. I understand he is coming and will be here in a few minutes.

Mr O'Connor—The time is up.
Lord Ventry—So I ask the guardians not to get

Mr Kelly—I rise as the unreturned representa-

Mr Kelly—Lord Ventry is welcome to kill time last year when he had no right to vote, and I was therefore elected as chairman for the past year. He had no more right to vote no more than John Chute Neligan, the county court judge of Westmeath.

The objection is to be referred to the Local Gos-vernment Board.

VICE-CHAIRMAN.

Mr Kearney—I propose that Mr P D Kenny fill the vice chair of this Board.

Mr T Egan—I second that.

There being no objection Mr Kenny was de-

Mr Divane—I propose Mr Thomas O'Connor as deputy vice chairman.

Mr Sullivan seconded it. Passed

Lord Ventry—Before this vote is recorded I am

NESS BEFORE THE HOUSE.

(FROM THE DAILY NEWS.)
The delivery of the Queen's speech the other day had to charge themselves with the execution of two other measures, over one of which they expect a long, a stubborn and a whole mean of course, the Affirmation of the whole body of the Conservative Party to offer the utmost resistance to the Government, that even if it should pass in the Commons, the Lords will throw it out. It is a measure small in itself but of great importance to Ireland, the Land Valuation Bill, a measure merely in the registration system in Ireland and securities for the voter that the system adopted in this country.
The Government have always been in favour of reform, but their intentions have been thwarted. It is not a measure which is likely to take up much of the time of the House of Commons. Just now it is a waste of time that will be given up to the Government and their friends, but whatever time is wasted this period of a session proves indicative of the end to be time taken from the administration. All we desire to do is to get the fact that this, that, and the other is expected to take up time, and that estimate the probable success of the Government on the assumption that Mr. Gladstone leaves the whole of the session at his disposal.

New York telegram says there is no confirmation of the statement that the British Government has decided the formation of an International League to counteract anarchical plots.

Mr Kenny—We are not going to take the other side short. Mr Bateman also asks for ten minutes.
Mr O'Connor—I call question. I have proposed
Mr M'Mahon.
Lord Ventry—I am not asking for time.
Mr O'Connor—He would not give us time (laughter).

Lord Ventry—After what fell from Mr Kelly in which he appeared to be perfectly justified—I have to proceed at once to vote on that, as putting forward that view—evidently acceptable to the board
—I have no alternative left me but to decline to propose Col Rowan or proceed to do so (hear, hear) I have selected the alternative of proceeding to propose Col. Rowan, and if you will bear with me for a few minutes I will explain the grounds on which I do so. In the first place I do not do so in any spirit antagonistic to the gentleman who has been proposed here just now—that is Mr M'Mahon.
Mr M'Mahon has held the office of deputy vice chairman for the last year, or two years, I am not sure which; but certainly so far as I am aware whenever he has been called upon to discharge the duties of the chair he has done so satisfactorily.
Therefore I have nothing—in proposing Col Rowan—antagonistic to Mr M'Mahon. I must say having taken some part in the election two years ago I feel no reason to be ashamed of the course I then took. I think Col. Rowan by his conduct in the chair at all times, and on every occasion as far as I can judge and as far as I am aware of, has fully justified the choice made by the board. I think at very great personal inconvenience to himself, and a sacrifice of time and a very great trial of temper, he has discharged those duties impartially and faithfully (hear, hear). Of course it is impossible for anybody who has an opinion of his own—especially in times such as these—always to find himself the same way of thinking as a shifting majority.

A Guardian—You are trying to kill time.
Lord Ventry, continuing,—He might find himself in antagonism with the Board on one occasion, and on the next occasion he might find himself perfectly in accord with it. I think every body will admit that where he agreed with the majority, or where he did not, so far as his executive duties as chairman were concerned, he always acted impartially, calmly and judiciously. Every body knows that knows anything about the Poor Law that the Board of Guardians was constituted for the relief of poor and the carrying out of special Acts of Parliament. Unfortunately a great many Acts of Parliament have been tacked to the Poor Law Act, and from time to time we are obliged, under the name of poor rates, to impose a great deal of taxation over which the guardians have virtually no control, and it goes to swell the poor rates. But after these extra rates are eliminated from the calculation, the balance which is employed directly for the relief of the poor and

Mr M'Mahon, on taking the chair said, that he begged to thank them sincerely for the high honour they had conferred on him, and he hoped that by the assistance of a great many practical guardians and with other assistance to carry out the business of the union properly. They are parting with a fair, honourable, and upright chairman (hear, hear).
Mr Kenny and Mr O'Connor thanked the guardians also for the offices they were elected to fill.

Mr Kelly—What about the vacancy at Blennerville for it appears I am disqualified.

Mr Sullivan—Who took exception to you as representative?

Mr Kelly—Some ex officio guardians this year who I suppose were under the impression that the returning officer could not do his duty properly and required assistance.

Clerk—There was no necessity for coming to my assistance.

Lord Ventry—I rise to order. Mr Kelly as far as I understand him he is disqualified, and he has admitted that there was no election for the electoral division of Blennerville. If it is the case I wish to record my objection to Mr Kelly's voting to day.

Mr Kelly—I did not vote. I am disqualified, not by law, not by the Local Government Board, but by County Club.

Clerk—You are disqualified by me as returning officer, and by Act of Parliament.

Mr Kelly—When Major Spaight comes here he will account for it. He admitted that he was sent for from the Club for the purpose of looking after my vote.

Mr Bateman—The words are false, for I firmly believe he was away from the Club at that time.

Mr Kelly—I have it from the lips of the returning officer. I don't want to rise discord here. It is easier for me to lose my vote for I am sincerely satisfied to see the popular interest represented here.

Lord Ventry—I rise to order. I am in possession of the chair, and I have been interrupted on several occasions. I think—

Mr Kelly—You must admit that you have got a great deal of latitude here.

Lord Ventry—I have a right to be heard. I did state (and he has confirmed what I have said when he did not vote) that he has been disqualified for Blen-nerville, and that that electoral division is vacant. I therefore go further, such being the case that Mr Kelly has no right to have taken part in the proceedings on this occasion.

Mr Kelly (warmly)—I have every right.

Lord Ventry—I beg to mark my objection of his taking such a part—

Clerk—If he wanted to vote we would not take it. He is not a guardian or—

Mr Kelly—I am not such a fool, but you dare not object to my voice here.

Lord Ventry—I do object to your voice at this place or on this occasion.

Mr Kelly (decisively)—You have had your say and you said it.

Lord Ventry (sharply)—I object to Mr Kelly proposing these debates as he is not a guardian of this union.

Mr Kelly—I have a right to speak.

ANTRIM ASSIZES.

At the County Antrim Assizes on Wednesday, Mr Justice Lawson passed sentence on twelve men convicted on Friday last and Tuesday, of having conspired to murder certain landlords and other persons unknown, at Crossmaglen, County Armagh. Ten of them, Nugent, Malley, Kelly, Wattles, Devlin, Flannagan, Geoghegan, Hamratty, Coleman, and Smith were sentenced to ten years, M'Brill to seven years penal servitude. His Lordship, in passing sentence, commented strongly upon the fatality of such associations.

CAPTAIN O'SHEA AND LADY FLORENCE DIXIE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR.—You are mistaken as to the motive by which you suppose me to be actuated in asking questions regarding the alleged attack on Lady Florence Dixie.
My only object is to prevent Irishmen in England being thrown out of work on account of the prejudice created against them by the accusation against countrymen of ours. I told Sir William Harcourt before I interrogated him on the subject last week that I should be satisfied if he would state that there appeared to be no grounds for such an imputation. I have not consulted anybody, nor have I been consulted by anybody in the matter.—Yours, etc.

THE CAPE GOVERNMENT.

The 'Times' Durban correspondent says—In view of the state of affairs in Transvaal, the Cape Government has announced its intention to enforce the law against squatting farmers at all hazards. Colonial troops are now marching there.

DISCOVERY OF EXPLOSIVES AT DOVER.

TWO MEN ARRESTED.

Dover, Wednesday.
Alarm was occasioned to day in Dover on the rumour that an attempt had been made to blow up the harbour station at Dover of the South Eastern Railway. The facts are that two men arrived at the Priory Station with two kegs of cotton powder.
The barrels were enclosed in an iron case. At the Priory station the took the wooden barrels out of the case and conveyed them in sacks to the platform of the harbour station. Suspicion being aroused, the two men were apprehended, and will be brought before the magistrates on Thursday.

THE IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Mr. T. D. Sullivan M.P., speaking at the meeting of the National League in Dublin, said it was unlikely that the country would settle down while so many grievances remained unre-dressed. If constitutional agitation was suppressed illegal agitation would inevitably follow.
As to the dynamite policy they had nothing to say, except that the Government were responsible for it. No prominent man on the popular side was at present safe in the country.

OSPEALMENT.
On over fifteen thou-attended were held at day, and resolutions concerning the stragment prevailed and considering tenders for the construction of the Killarney Water works, and by which the Commissioners have obtained a loan of £8,000. Mr J.

D. Sheehan, Chairman of the Board, presided.
The other members present were—Messrs T. J.
Lyne, Edward Carey, Daniel M'Donnell, M. O'Sullivan, T. J. O'Connor, F. Donnelly, J. J. Spillane, W. Martin, P. O'Callaghan, and M. W. O'Brien.
Mr Robert Denny, C.E., Tralee, who has been appointed as engineer for the works, was also present.

The Chairman on opening the pile of documents, tenders, and specifications, pamphlets, and maps from the candidates from Glasgow, Dublin, Killarney, Tralee, and Killarney, said it would not be necessary for them in the determination of the contractor, on account of a material error in the advertisement, it would not be well to make public the respective amounts of the tenders.

Mr. M. O'Sullivan did not see the necessity for postponing the choice of contractor; that the whole works could be given to one man instead of parts or sections, and that the whole of the proceedings, regardless of the length of time which they would occupy, could be settled that day. He moved a resolution to that effect, and it was seconded by Mr. J. O'Callaghan, and agreed to.

The Chairman then stated that the lowest tender would not be necessarily accepted (cries of "a local man"), and that the tender should be re-satisfied by the Local Government Board. That was the law, and the Commissioners had not the sole authority for deciding the tenders.

The tenders were then opened, and were from the following:—W. R. Johnson, Killarney; Simpson, of Dublin; Stewart, of Glasgow; Healy Brothers, Tralee; and O'Driscoll and Graham, of Killarney, who are at present completing the Mallow Waterworks.

The Commissioners spoke of the efficiency with which the Healy Bros. finished the Tralee Water works, and the manner in which O'Driscoll & Co. were forwarding the Mallow works. Owing to the length of time that would be required to execute the several contracts, divided as they were into four sections, it was proposed and seconded that Mr.
Denny, C.E., do not proceed with his declaration of the lowest tender until the following day. This was agreed to.

The Local Government Board have already consented to a loan of £2,000 with which to commence the works and the contractor will have to enter into a bond for £2,000 for the satisfactory execution of the works.

The meeting then adjourned.

KILLARNEY BOARD OF GUARDIANS—WEDNESDAY.

Mr J. D. SHEEHAN, V.C. in the chair.
Also present—Messrs R. Orpen and F. O. Downing, ex-officio; H. Doran, P. F. Donoghue, M. Sheehan, J. Price, J. Conihnan, T. Brennan, J. Murphy, T. Cronin, G. Fitzgerald.

A woman named Mary Horgan, with four helpless children, who had been recently evicted from a small holding at Aghadone, on the estate of Catharine M. Vines, applied for temporary relief. She was allowed 12s.6d. a week for a month.

Three or four other applications were made by individuals for outdoor relief.

The Chairman informed the several parties that single persons could not be relieved outside but could be admitted to the house if they choose.

The latter alternative was only accepted in one instance.

THE RATE-COLLECTORSHIPS

A warm discussion took place as to the objections raised against the sureties of Messrs Cooper and Scott. Mr. Cooper offered other sureties, and his supporters were prepared to proceed with his re-election. Mr. Scott wrote to say that he was prepared to satisfy the board as to the sureties he had offered.

Mr. D. O'Connor, one of the candidates for the collectorship, appeared before the board to claim his right to nomination for the Conn district, on the ground that a mere formal question in the schedule, as to whether the candidate "sold goods by retail" should not be taken as a disqualification.
He also read a long letter addressed by him to the Local Government Board, and the formal reply thereof.

The Clerk was directed to send a circular letter to the Local Poor Law Inspector, the chairman, and other guardians, asking their attendance on Wednesday next.

This difficulty seems to have arisen through the guardians proceeding to the elections before taking the sanction of the authorities.

The following resolution, accompanied by a certificate from Dr. O'Boyle, was received from the Mallow Dispensary Committee—

Resolution—That we direct our solicitors to consider the application to the Limerick and Kerry Railway Bill under Standing Orders, unless clauses 10 and 11 be withdrawn.
With reference to the appointment of a competent person to examine the accounts of the Company before the arbitrators sit to assess the guarantee.
Mr. M'Cowan suggested that their solicitor Mr.
Downing, be instructed to take steps to procure the services of an accountant to look into all accounts of the Company before the sitting of the Arbitrators.
A resolution to this effect was passed, and the meeting adjourned.

Nelligan, Q. C., and Hon. E. A. de Moleyns, and those substituted are—Messrs Maurice S. Reidy, Francis H.
Downing, Edward L. Nash, and Stephen E. Collins.

REMOVING INVINCIBLES TO ENGLAND.

Dublin, Wednesday Night.
Late last night orders were issued that in the early morning some 20 convicts would be transferred from Mountjoy Prison. Before morning a body of police, mounted and dismounted (the latter on cars) appeared outside the prison. About 5.20 two police vans were driven out of the prison, and the police, in charge of Superintendent Cowman, closed up round the vehicles.
Twelve warders were in charge of the two vans, which contained ten prisoners. These included the invincible convicts the Crossmaglin prisoners; Downing (of Abbey street notoriety), Kinsella (High street murder), and it is supposed that the remaining two men were Walsh (whose sentence was commuted) and a Dublin convict named Mullen. The route to the North Wall lay along the Wharf Road. Arrived at the Point of the Wall, a rapid transfer of the men was made to the gunboat Amelia, which, with steam up, was lying alongside. Here it was that some of the prisoners were hurriedly recognised. The men looked well. Before six o'clock they were on board the Amelia the moorings were at once cast off, and she steamed off to the Valorous, lying on Kingstown. At seven o'clock the Valorous steamed into the Channel with her passengers. The destination of the Valo-rious, although kept secret, is believed to be Portsmouth.

STRANGE DISCOVERY.

An extraordinary discovery was made at the Marine Barracks, Stonehurst, Plymouth, on Tuesday.
During the progress of some excavation works which were being conducted for the purpose of laying down new drains a leg bone was dug up, and the workmen proceeding carefully succeeded in extricating the remainder of a human skeleton in almost perfect preservation. It was embedded in the ground.
The remains were moved to the police station to await an inquest. Some years ago a skeleton was discovered within the boundaries of the barracks under similar circumstances, but no explanation was then or is now forthcoming.

TRALEE BOARD OF GUARDIANS—WEDNESDAY.

The usual weekly meeting of the Board was held on Wednesday.
 Mr. MICHAEL M. MAHON (chairman) presided.
 The other Guardians present were: Messrs P. D. Kenny, V.C., M. Quinlan, M. Brick, P. O'Sullivan, P. Corcoran, M. Stack, T. Egan, R. Keane, D. J. Keane, and J. Power.
 There was 633 inmates in the house on last Saturday, and at the corresponding period of last year 833.

The applications for admission and outdoor relief were considered first, but they were unimportant.

LOANS FOR COMMERCIAL PURPOSES.

The Clerk of the Mountmellick Union transmitted the following resolution adopted by that Board for the consideration of the Guardians—

Proposed by Mr. W. H. Cobbe, seconded by Mr. James Troy, and resolved—That this Board ask the Legislature to lend money to the farmers, merchants, and shopkeepers to pay off their mortgages and all legal liabilities on the same terms as they will lend to the landlords, and on the same line that there is a petition getting up by them for presentation at present.

The resolution was adopted.

DEPORTATION OF PAUPERS.

The Londonderry Union forwarded a petition which they had adopted to the effect that the legislative enactments intitled "The Poor Removal Act," with the several amendments, empowering England and Scotland to remove by deportation those born in Ireland that have become burdensome on their rates, and cannot qualify under the law of residence, is unjust and partial for several reasons.

Mr. Kenny—It is a long standing grievance. There is no objection to adopting it.

Chairman—Not the least.

The petition was then adopted.

The Local Government sanctioned the payment of £2 2s. to Dr. Harrington as remuneration for his services in assisting the medical officer in a difficult midwifery case.

The following letter was next read:—

Local Government Board,
 Dublin, 29th February, '84.

Sir,—The Local Government Board for Ireland forward to you the accompanying letter which they have received from Mr. J. C. Neelan, J.P., relating to his qualification for the office of

LISTOWEL HOUSE LEAGUE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Mr. P. D. GRIFFIN.

The chairman said that since their last meeting a landlord named Mr. Patrick Kirby wrote to their secretary saying that he would make a permanent reduction in the rents of his house property. This was nothing but what the chairman and every other member in the room expected from Mr. Kirby who is much and deservedly esteemed by his fellow-townsmen.

Mr. J. J. Dillon proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. P. Kirby, which was seconded by Mr. M. Kirby and carried amidst loud applause.

The replies received from the other landlords communicated with, were not, the chairman announced at all satisfactory.

After some discussion Mr. M. J. Larkin said that he would not stop to hear what he considered a great deal of unnecessary matter discussed, and which should not be discussed in a house league meeting. He accordingly left the room.

Mr. P. J. Houlihan proposed and Mr. T. M. Auliffe seconded the following resolution which was unanimously carried.

Resolved—That we the members of the Listowel House League, strongly condemn the disrespectful manner with which some of the landlords have treated our circulars in not replying to them, and we wish them to know that we will not write to them again on the matter, but pledge ourselves to remain steadfast and not yield until such time as our demands are satisfied.

After Mr. P. J. Houlihan consented to become assistant secretary to the League.

LISTOWEL INTELLIGENCE.

LISTOWEL BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

Listowel, Thursday.

The usual weekly meeting of this Board was held to-day.

Mr. R. BOYLE (chairman) presided.

The other guardians present were—Messrs J. Stack, V.C., T. Dillon, J. Nolan, M. J. O'Connell, R. Cussen, J. W. Keane, C. Keane, W. Henigan, J. P. Stack, P. Sheehy and J. Scallion.

A SURCHARGE.

While reading the minutes of the last meeting the chairman drew the Board's attention to an entry inserted in them of a surcharge of eight shillings made by Mr. M. Hugh, the Local Government Board auditor on Mr. J. Stack.

The Chairman said that this eight shillings was relief given to an evicted farmer named Galvin, who was represented by the relieving officer as being in much need of it at the time. When the auditor came down to look at the books he came across this item, and he asked the clerk if the person who got it was in need of it. The clerk said he was not, as he heard privately that Galvin had a short time previous to getting this relief a check for £400. The auditor then surcharged it to Mr. Stack, and if it was £20 instead of 8s it would be the same thing.

Mr. Henigan—The man had never that amount of money.

Mr. Keane—He couldn't have it.

Mr. Cussen—He might have an order, but perhaps it was not a deposit order, and even if he had the money before he paid his debts, perhaps he would not have a penny after paying them, and he would then be as much in want of relief as anyone and as much entitled to get it.

Chairman—The Clerk did not act at all in a proper manner in telling to the auditor what he only heard himself without letting the board know anything about it, and even withholding the person's name who told him.

The Clerk (Mr. McCarthy) said that he was credibly informed about it, and he could not in honor tell the name of a person who told him anything in private. He should answer all questions asked of him by the auditor in as truthful a manner as possible, he would not be fit to hold the position he held if he did not. As to telling it to the board it would have been of no possible use as Galvin was gone to America. He told Mr. Stack privately of it.

Chairman—Yes, but Mr. Stack did not know that he was going to be surcharged with it, and

KILLARNEY TOWN COMMISSIONERS

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

An adjourned meeting of this body was held on Wednesday.

Mr. J. D. SHEEHAN, (in the chair)

Other Commissioners present were Carey, J. J. O'Connor, M. Sullivan, T. Donnelly, James O'Callaghan, and Wm. Martin said that in consequence of the Clerk's aunt, Mrs. S. place that day, he would propose that the adjourned meeting as a mark in the Clerk's affidavit.

Mr. M. A. Doran, town clerk, said I wish that they adjourn again. The Mayor for which he felt thankful.

Chairman—If you wish to adjourn so, but before you do so, I will ask you to appoint a committee to see that the work is carried out. There is a letter from the verger of the Board ratifying the contract Healy Bros. received to-day.

It was decided at the request of the self that they proceed with the business.

THE RAILWAY STATION MASTER

Chairman—There is another matter which I wish to refer to the feelings and the Commissioners, and to the people of which I wish to refer. I have been some of the Commissioners, and the shopkeepers of Killarney. You are Mr. Foley, the railway station master leave Killarney for a future home having resigned his office after a period in that capacity in this town right owing to the courteous manner in which he invariably discharged his duties, a compliment should be paid in shape of an address and testimonial as an individual myself that he is a factious, and I have reason to think, public is concerned that the inhabitants would wish that some testimonial be presented to him before his leaving.

Mr. Reidy—He is well entitled to it.

Chairman—I hope that who ever Foley he will give the same uniform to the mercantile community of Killarney. Mr. Foley gave (hear hear). Mr. Reidy require a testimonial, but he thought it due on the part of the public as a public body, and the inhabitants generally to present him with a testimonial of their gratitude (hear hear).

Mr. Donnelly—He has done a great town.

Mr. O'Connor suggested an address thought that Mr. Foley would not accept a testimonial as he did not need it.

Mr. Reidy—I would be for an It was ultimately agreed to that presented to Mr. Foley.

THE WATERWORKS.

Mr. Doran, Clerk read a letter from Government Board, dated 29th with reference to resolutions of the Board of the 5th and 7th of that month, waterworks contract, that the entire of entering into contracts of this alone on the sanitary authority, the Local Government Board which would not relieve the sanitary authority responsibility.

THE GAS QUESTION.

Mr. Doran, clerk, said that with discussion on last Friday regarding the Santing, one of the lessees in supply with gas, there was no resolution minutes declaring Mr. Santing the contract. The present lessees took up the work under contractors.

Chairman—They can cut off the gas they wish.

Clerk—They cannot by this agreement they are bound with the former contractors the public with lamps.

Chairman—I think they could turn tomorrow; all we can do in such is to contractor.

Mr. Reidy asked to whom was the gas hitherto, and the Clerk said to the late Mr. Sullivan ultimately gave notice they advertise for a gas contractor

TRALEE BOARD OF GUARDIANS—

WEDNESDAY.

The usual weekly meeting of the Board was held on Wednesday.

Mr. MICHAEL M'MAHON (chairman) presided. The other Guardians present were:—Messrs P. D. Kenny, V.C., M. Quinlan, M. Brick, P. O'Sullivan, P. Corcoran, M. Stack, T. Egan, R. Keane, D. J. Keane, and J. Power.

There was 633 inmates in the house on last Saturday, and at the corresponding period of last year 883.

The applications for admission and outdoor relief were considered first, but they were unimportant.

LOANS FOR COMMERCIAL PURPOSES.

The Clerk of the Mountmellick Union transmitted the following resolution adopted by that Board for the consideration of the Guardians—

Proposed by Mr. W. H. Cobbe, seconded by Mr. James Troy, and resolved—"That this Board ask the Legislature to lend money to the farmers, merchants, and shopkeepers to pay off their mortgages and all legal liabilities on the same terms as they will lend to the landlords, and on the same line that there is a petition getting up by them for presentation at present."

The resolution was adopted.

DEPORTATION OF PAUPERS.

The Londonderry Union forwarded a petition which they had adopted to the effect that the legislative enactments intitled "The Poor Removal Act," with the several amendments, empowering England and Scotland to remove by deportation those born in Ireland that have become burdensome on their rates, and cannot qualify under the law of residence, is unjust and partial for several reasons.

Mr. Kenny—It is a long standing grievance. There is no objection to adopting it.

Chairman—Not the least.

The petition was then adopted.

The Local Government sanctioned the payment of £2 2s. to Dr. Harrington as remuneration for his services in assisting the medical officer in a difficult midwifery case.

The following letter was next read:—

"Local Government Board,
 Dublin, 29th February, '84.

"Sir,—The Local Government Board for Ireland forward to you the accompanying letter received from Mr. J. C. Nelson,

LISTOWEL HOUSE LEAGUE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Mr. P. D. GRIFFIN.

The chairman said that since their last meeting a landlord named Mr. Patrick Kirby wrote to their secretary saying that he would make a permanent reduction in the rents of his house property. This was nothing but what the chairman and every other member in the room expected from Mr. Kirby who is much and deservedly esteemed by his fellow-townsmen.

Mr. J. J. Dillon proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. P. Kirby, which was seconded by Mr. M. Kirby and carried amidst loud applause.

The replies received from the other landlords communicated with, were not, the chairman announced at all satisfactory.

After some discussion Mr. M. J. Larkin said that he would not stop to hear what he considered a great deal of unnecessary matter discussed, and which should not be discussed in a house league meeting. He accordingly left the room.

Mr. P. J. Houlihan proposed and Mr. T. M'Auliffe seconded the following resolution which was unanimously carried.

Resolved—"That we the members of the Listowel House League, strongly condemn the disrespectful manner with which some of the landlords have treated our circulars in not replying to them, and we wish them to know that we will not write to them again on the matter, but pledge ourselves to remain steadfast and not yield until such time as our demands are satisfied."

After Mr. P. J. Houlihan consented to become assistant secretary to the League.

LISTOWEL BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

Listowel, Thursday.

The usual weekly meeting of this Board was held to-day.

Mr. R. BOYLE, (chairman) presided.

The other guardians present were—Messrs J. Stack, V.C., T. Dillon, J. Nolan, M. J. O'Connell, R. Cusson, J. W. Keane, C. Keane, W. Henigan, J. P. Stack, P. Sheehy and J. Scinlon.

A SURCHARGE.

While reading the minutes of the last meeting the chairman drew the Board's attention to an entry inserted in them of a surcharge of eight shillings made by Mr. M'Flugh, the Local Government Board auditor on Mr. J. Stack.

The Chairman said that this eight shillings was relief given to an evicted farmer named Galvin, who was represented by the relieving officer as being in much need of it at the time. When the auditor came down to look at the books he came across this item, and he asked the clerk if the person who got it was in need of it. The clerk said he was not, as he heard privately that Galvin had a short time previously to getting this relief a check for £400. The auditor then surcharged it to Mr. Stack, and if it was £22 instead of 8s it would be the same thing.

Mr. Henigan—The man had never that amount of money.

Mr. Keane—He couldn't have it.

Mr. Cusson—He might have an order, but perhaps it was not a deposit order, and even if he had the money before he paid his debts, perhaps he wouldn't have a penny after paying them, and he would then be as much in want of relief as anyone and as much entitled to get it.

Chairman—The Clerk did not act at all in a proper manner in talking to the auditor what he only heard himself without letting the board know anything about it, and even withholding the person's name who told him.

The Clerk (Mr. McCarthy) said that he was credibly informed about it, and he could not in honor tell the name of a person who told him anything in private. He should answer all questions asked of him by the auditor in as truthful a manner as possible, he would not be fit to hold the position he held if he did not. As to telling it to the board it would have been of no possible use as Galvin was gone to America. He told Mr. Stack privately of it.

TRALE BOARD OF GUARDIANS

THE ELECTION OF CHAIRMAN.

The usual weekly meeting of the Board was held on Wednesday. The election of chairman, vice-chairman, and deputy vice-chairman, was fixed for to-day and more than the ordinary interest manifested itself in the proceedings.

The following Guardians were present:—Herbert Fitzgerald, Maurice Black, Patrick Black, Patrick O'Sullivan (B), Patrick O'Sullivan (St. John's), Thomas O'Connor (C), Miles Cronin, Patrick McMahon, Thomas Allman, M. O'Shane, Lattery, James O'Sullivan, Patrick O'Sullivan, Mortimer Sheehan, Terence Brennan, Maurice P. Kearney, James Kearney, Patrick D. Kenny, Edmund H. O'Connor, Garrett Fitzgerald, Patrick H. H. William O'Keefe, Patrick Rice, John Ryan, Richard Walsh, John as O'Shane, Henry W. Knight, Thomas J. O'Connor, James M. Riarty, Garrett F. Fleming, John E. O'Connor, Henry Green, Denis J. Keene, James Roche, Maurice Quinlan, John Power, Patrick Divane, Thomas Egan.

At a quarter to one o'clock, the hour at which the elections usually begin.

The Clerk (Mr P. M. Quinlan) was requested by the Board to take the chair.

Mr Quinlan declined, as he believed he could not legally do so.

Several members of the Board said it was customary for the Clerk to take the chair at the previous elections which had been held.

Mr Quinlan—The law was changed about two years ago; I will read the section for you.

Mr Power said it was usual for the Clerk to take the chair until the election had been over, and he now moved that Mr Quinlan do take the chair in the absence of Mr McMahon, their late chairman.

Mr Divane supported the motion.

Mr Kenny said it had been the practice during the long time he was connected with the Board, and it would be an unusual thing to introduce any new course now. Unless there was a change in the law he did not think Mr Quinlan could be taking the chair. He thought the chair should be filled by the Clerk until the chairman was appointed. They had never acted thus in the manner he described.

Mr Black—Never, sir, never.

Mr Kenny—This is a very unusual course. It is the wish of the Board, Mr Quinlan, that you take the chair.

Mr Divane—There is nothing illegal in your taking the chair.

Mr Quinlan—Well, I will take the chair, but I will not say anything, as I have not the power to do so.

Mr Brick—Mr Quinlan, as our old guardian, I beg to call the attention of the Board to the fact that on every occasion like this our late clerk, Mr Stokes, always took the chair (hear, hear). He (Mr. Stokes) read the list of elected Guardians, informed the Board a chairman had to be elected, and then he was ready and willing to hear any person who was ready to propose a candidate, and then when the officers were elected, he withdrew from the chair.

Mr Quinlan then took the chair at the request of the Board, and read over the list of ex-officio and elected guardians when he had finished the former list.

Mr Sheehan asked where were they to-day (laughter).

Chairman—Now, gentlemen, we will go on with the election of chairman, vice-chairman, and deputy-chairman.

Mr M P. Kearney—I have great pleasure in proposing Mr Michael McMahon as chairman for this year. I think he is a very fit and proper person to fill the position. He is lying down at present with a cold and is under medical treatment. I was at his house to-day and the doctor said it would be dangerous for him to go out.

Mr Walsh seconded the motion.

There was no other candidate proposed and Mr. McMahon was declared elected.

Mr Power—I have great pleasure in proposing Mr P. D. Kenny as vice-chairman of the Board.

Mr P. Divane seconded Mr. Kenny's proposition.

Mr Kenny was declared duly elected.

Mr Power also proposed Mr Thomas Allman as deputy vice-chairman.

Mr M Quinlan seconded his election.

Mr J E O'Connor—It is a great thing to see that the landlords have left Ireland (laughter.)

Mr Sheehan—I propose the good health of Mr Charles Stewart Parnell and his followers (laughter.)

Mr Kenny took the chair and said—It becomes my duty gentlemen in the absence of our chairman who is elected to return you my sincere thanks for the confidence you have placed in me, in electing me your vice-chairman, which we all regret is ailing, and unable to attend to-day (hear, hear). I am sure, and I say so that filling the chair is a very easy task, knowing as I do from my connection with this Board the assistance which the intelligent members of it gave to any man who presided (applause).

THE WATER SUPPLY.

A long discussion took place on the question of the increase of the water supply to the workhouse for £35 to £50, during which the majority of the Board expressed themselves against the Town Commissioners charging more than £35. No decision was come to on the matter, and it will be on again for consideration.

The other business disposed of was unimportant.

thought it necessary to afford any protection, and not a constable was near the place during the entire day. The shot is believed to have been fired from the house, and there on a small altar which runs parallel to the house. There were two marks on the wall where the bullet went in, and the cover and gone right through the back. The position of Moriarty was tested by Mr. Morrison, and the theory that the shot had been fired from the fork of the tree is borne out by the line of fire drawn from it to the bin. The police under charge of Mr. Morrison the District Inspector at Killorglin after examining the place found a flattened bullet behind the bin, and also a one sootched wadding which they think came out of a gun. They made no arrests, but they searched the house of a man named Sullivan some little distance away, and it is stated they took away an old copybook from another house farther away. Daniel Moriarty occupies a rather unpleasant social position in the locality, consequent upon his taking an evicted farm. This fact was not generally known until last May, but it was believed that he had grazed the farm. Since it was known he has been partially boycotted. The farm which he took is on Sir John Godfrey's property near Milltown, and the name of the evicted tenant is Eugene McMahon O'Sullivan. He was ejected over two years ago. The farm contains 30 acres, the valuation being £28 10s and the rent which he had been paying, £54 7s 6d. It was first taken by a cousin of Moriarty's who gave it up almost immediately.
Moriarty lives at Dromin about a mile from Killorglin and the farm is worked for him by a relative. The district is an exceptionally quiet one. Up to the present no particulars have transpired regarding it.

THE ANNUAL POOR-LAW ELECTIONS. TRALEE UNION.

The following is the list of nominations for the different divisions in the Poor-Law Union of Tralee.
Where no nomination takes place the old guardian sits in, and where there are two or more persons nominated a contest takes place:—

posed by James Flaherty, Kilberriher; Kiltallagh—Aeneas Daly (present guardian); Knockglass—Patk Divane (do); Knocknagoshel—Thomas O'Connor (do); Lackabawn—Garrett G. Fleming (No), opposed by Daniel McCarthy, Mulloughmarky; Millbrook—John
E. O'Connor, (present guardian); Nohoval—Henry Breen, do; O'Brennan—Denis J. Keane, do; Retass
—M. M. Mahon, do; Seartaglin—James Roche, Fifies; opposed by John Tangney, Seartaglin; Tralee—present guardians nominated; Tubrid—Thomas Egan, Tubrid.

At Tralee and Tralee people, the traders and everyone would be benefited by it, but unfortunately those who should be guiding and protecting the people of Tralee had associated themselves with English attorneys and English contractors, and the consequences was that the ratepayers were the sufferers (applause). He was afraid also that the lion will be a source of taxation upon them and if that work like the other had been carried out in the spirit that intended he did not suppose they would complain about it, but that like a lion things was done in secret, with the doors closed, against the Press, which he hoped would never occur in that room or in any other public hall in Kerry.

Mr B. O'G. Horgan—Scandalous—monstrous
The Chairman said when the ratepayers allowed their money to be disposed of in such a manner they may certainly infer the worst (hear, hear).

Mr M. Power—The upshot will be ruin.
The Chairman said there were important resolutions to be proposed which he would be glad to receive. He was sure they had met in the best of humour, with the best intentions and not a dispar-dant or discouraging voice amongst them. Everything would be carried on order and peaceably, so that when the meeting came to a close they would be able to congratulate themselves on having done something which might benefit the town and benefit the county (applause).

Mr Michael Power—Mr Chairman are there any people allowed in here to-day who are not ratepayers within the borough of Tralee.

Mr Casey—The public are allowed in.
The point of Mr Power's remarks was the presence to two police in plain clothes, whom he designated wolves in sheep's clothing, and he wanted to know if their presence at the meeting would be allowed by those present.

Some discussion followed between Mr. Power, Mr.
B. O'G. Horgan, and Mr. James Casey. The latter two could not see what objection there could be to the police when they were afraid of no one.

Mr. Harrington rose to order, and said he had some experience of police attending meetings. It was well sometimes they attended in order that the Government would learn what the people complained of and what the people demanded (hear, hear), but that being a meeting of the ratepayers he thought it a slur to have policemen present to watch everything they said and done for their own use or advantage (applause).

Mr. Casey said it was a public meeting and everyone had a right to be there, no matter who he was.
A division was then taken, when all present voted for the expulsion of the "men of force."

The Sergeant said he only wanted the word to go, and he would have done so.

The police then left the room, and the business of the meeting resumed.

Mr. O'Rourke, who was applauded on coming forward, said he had been asked by Mr. Harrington and other members of the committee to take charge of the first resolution to be submitted to the meeting. He regretted some other gentleman more important and a larger ratepayer did not get the preference (no, no), but as the resolution was put into his hands he would do the very best he could in the matter (hear, hear). The first resolution would have their hearty support and sympathy.
He was he believed in 32 counties there was not one more taxed than the town of Tralee—the capital of Kerry. And taking in consideration the depression in all branches of trade and agricultural depression in the county which caused commercial depression in Tralee—taking that into consideration it behoved the ratepayers of any important town to take immediate action and organize from that meeting a ratepayers protective association in order to look after the interest of the ratepayers.
Organization was the backbone of every political and social agitation that has convulsed the country within the last century. It was organization combined with agitation that gained all great con-

Mr Morphy asked the witness did he accompany Devlin any part of the way for the police when he went to report the matter.

Witness—I did not. No member of the family accompanied him any of the way.

Mr. Morphy asked the Coroner would he go farther with the enquiry to-night.

Mr. Davis—The poor father and mother are here, and I should like to have them examined to-night as it would be a great pity to be bringing them here again to-morrow.

Mr. Morphy—I do not think they will be required any more. It is of the utmost importance that whatever value my assistance is to my client, he should be represented here.

Coroner—Oh, certainly.
 Mr. Morphy—I cannot wait here any longer. I have got another engagement, and perhaps some of the jury will also to finish up their business.

The Coroner consulted the jury, and the majority of them were in favour of adjourning.

Mr. Morphy said they had only examined one witness, and his examination occupied nearly an hour.

Mr. Davis—The examination of the old woman will not take much time—it will not be ten minutes.

A Juror (Mr J Talbot)—If it doesn't take ten minutes as Mr Davis says it would be well I think to hear her.

Coroner (to witness)—What was the result of the first shot on that night; was anybody wounded?
 We have not heard a word about that yet.

Witness—My brother was wounded by the shot in the arm.

Mr. Morphy—The wound it was trivial. It was tedious that resulted from it and caused death.

Witness (to the Coroner)—It was in the right arm it took effect. The shot took us by surprise;
 we had not time to consider how it took place; I don't know how it was fired; the police after going out rushed into the garden and fired three shots.

How soon after was Devlin sent away by Dowd?
 About a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes.
 Devlin was sent by Dowd for more police; I was with him all the time; we were close to- gether; not more than five or ten yards away. Could any conversation have occurred between Dowd and Devlin without you seeing it? Only one time when they ran about twenty yards after the fellows that were there.

The conclusion of this report and of the evidence of the inquiry to-day has been crushed out out our nest.

The verdict was an open one and exonerated Constable Dowd from any connection with the original story.

COUNTY KERRY ATHLETIC AND CRICKET CLUB.

The committee met yesterday. The following members were present:—Sir Henry Donovan (in the chair), W. Connelly, H. P. Considine, Colonel Denny, St. J. H. Donovan, F. H. Downing, R. Fitzgerald, T. Haurahan, J. J. Harrington, M. J. Horgan, E. Murphy, W. T. Neligan, T. R. Scott.

Reports from sub-committees were received upon the state of the cricket ground, which has been retarded owing to the recent prevailing frost and wet weather, upon the running path, which is proceeding in a satisfactory manner, and the caretaker's house, which has been roofed and slated, and is in further progress of repair.

The committee were occupied with the state of its finance and general matters connected with the club.

A cheque was passed for £12 7s 3d, the amount of last week's expenses.

The committee also met on Monday, 2nd inst., Sir Henry Donovan in the chair. The following members were present:—H. F. Considine; W.
 Connelly, St. J. H. Donovan, Dr. Hayes, J. J.
 Harrington, M. J. Horgan, T. Mangan, Dr.
 Murphy, T. R. Scott, F. M. G. Denny, W. T.
 Neligan.

It was resolved that the Sub-Committee, having charge of the Palsading Contract, be instructed to arrange with the Messrs. Healy to place 1½ inch stuff on the side of the ground adjoining the Borbeen, at the increased pro rata rate of £8 per 340 feet.

NOMINATION OF GUARDIANS.

Wednesday last was the last day for receiving nomination papers for the several divisions of the union. Out of the 31 divisions eleven are contested, and the most of the national candidates are put forward by the local branches of the National League, and it is contemplated that with their aid and with the active National spirit at present animating the masses, the general result cannot be but a series of striking popular victories.

KILLARNEY LUNATIC ASYLUM.

Killarney, Friday.

At the usual weekly meeting of the Governors today the Most Rev Dr HENRICKS, Bishop of Kerry, presided.

Also present—Sir H. Donovan, Very Rev Dean Coffey, R. H. Orpen, J. P., Rev Mr Winn, and D. C. Coltsman, J. P., D. L.

STATE OF THE HOUSE.

In the House—212 males; 138, total 350.
 A draft agreement was placed before the governors with regard to the delivery of water to the Asylum;
 also the supply and the price to be paid to the Town Commissioners by the Governors.

The following resolution was proposed by Sir H.
 Donovan, seconded by Mr Coltsman, and passed unanimously:—

"That as regards the agreement before us to be entered into between the Governors and the Killarney Town Commissioners, that the Governors require the delivery to be made at the Asylum hall door as arranged in original plans of Mr. Denny Engineer, that the supply be ample and full for all requirements of the asylum, that the supply be taken from the reservoir now in formation and not from any lower level and that the agreement to be made by the board on these views and otherwise."

It was then agreed to employ Annie Ryan on trial as head nurse, but in the event of her not being able to come that Mary Lowry be appointed.

It was also decided that the name of Mr Roche,
 J. P., Magistrate, be commended to the Lord Lieutenant for appointment as governor of the Asylum.

The tenders of the following were accepted, being the lowest in each case—Messrs O'Leary and Wiseman, cloth; Messrs Moagher and Hilliard, hardware, paints and colours; Mr. Gillard, timber.

is next visit to the union.

following resolution was proposed by Mr.
seconded by Mr. Nolan, and unani-passed:—
at we, the Guardians of the Lisloughlin having regard to the vacancy in the erial Bench, created by the death of the fr. Robert McCarthy Hilliard, and the d proportion of Protestant gentlemen at t on the bench, beg to recommend to the Chancellor the advisability and the just-appointing Mr. Richard Boyle, chair-f this Board to the position, as we confirm in every way qualified, and that great ence would be given to the impartial adration of the law."

a good deal of curiosity in the passer-by how they came there. On being dis-ed by some police who were attending they were at once taken down and con-beg to call particular attention to the exive auction of Machinery and Farm Imple-ts to be held on Thursday next, at the cons of Messrs. Hodgins and Dobson, as adver-

d in our columns to-day.

Business of a public nature.
Some three farmers were notified to attend, who,
grow-heartedness or some other reason, only with the rule of the day, so that ing of plots, and the fact that the farm rent in the same acre, and only one of the notified appeared. This gentleman mistified the whole meeting by his information, saying he had already given the plot to one Mr. O'Brien, who is a painter by trade. A discussion arose as to whether O'Brien as a mechanic was entitled to the plot, and after a lengthened hearing it was unanimously agreed that O'Brien did not come within the scope of those to whom plots should be given.

Some other unimportant business being transacted,
the meeting adjourned.

THE ANNUAL POOR LAW ELECTIONS. TRALEE UNION.

The following is the list of nominations for the different divisions in the Poor Law Union of plan which would seem to be designed to buy a Conservative opposition by a large bribe to landlords, most of whom in Conservative ranks, could be account to this day, as a... their cry

"integrity of Empire" was raised in order to enable them to sell... they turn its integrity for hard cash. Many Liberals, too, would hesitate to agree to Irish landlords being secured out of the public purse more than they have fairly a right to demand for their estates, if the full settlement of the question of the future government of Ireland were staved off.

Any calculation based upon the judicial rents of 1881 is a false one, because agricultural produce has gone down in price since then above 25 per cent all round. Admitting that Irish landlords ought to be brought out all in excess of what would be regarded as a fair and reasonable price is a direct bribe. About one half of Ireland belong to 750 persons. Between 1846 and 1880, more than 90,000 evictions took place.
Irish landlords have treated Ireland much as the Spaniards treated Cuba when they discovered that island. They have ground down their tenants with excessive rents, and partially exterminated them. Any sympathy for such persons would be entirely misplaced. For us to give them their pound of flesh, and more than their pound of flesh, can only be assented to, if the payment forms a portion of a thorough settlement of the Irish question, acceptable to Irish and English alike. I regard it much like the friends of a person paying blackmail to brigands into whose clutches the friend has fallen.

There should be one bill dealing with the land and with the future government of the country.
So soon as it is passed, it should come into operation. If such a bill as Mr. Gladstone deems dasirable be defeated in the House of Commons, he should dissolve and appeal to the country. If it passes the House of Commons and is thrown out in the Lords, it should be brought in again in an autumn session; and, should it again be thrown out by the Lords, there ought to be an appeal to the country against the Lords.

It is said by some that the appeal would go against us. This I doubt. I suspect that there is more cry than wool in the Conservative assertion that a large number of electors believe that the integrity of the Empire depends on giving or refusing Home Rule to Ireland. The mass of the electors simply want the question to be definitely settled, and would rally almost to anyone who would show them a reasonable prospect of its being settled.

ESTATE OF MR. A. BLANNERHASSETT, BALLYSEEDY.

Mr. Huggard, solicitor, Tralee, attended at Killorglin, on Thursday, to receive rents from the Killorglin tenants of this estate. After some consultation among the tenants and the Rev T. Lawlor, P.P., it was agreed that a deputation headed by his reverence wait on him and tender him the rent 25 per cent less than the present rents, which was accordingly done.
The agent refused, saying, he could only give 15 per cent, which would be confined to those who did not go into the Land Court, after which the deputation withdrew.

MR. CLIFFORD, Surgeon Dentist, of 11 Clare street, Dublin, has a branch establishment at 1 Castle Street, Tralee, where one of his colleagues resides, and is in regular daily attendance from 9 to 6.

for Dunmoylan Division, and the sitting guardian, Mr. D. Cregan for Kilfergus Division.

TRALEE.

In only a couple of divisions was any opposition offered to the Nationalist representatives. About sixteen divisions were contested, and in nearly all those the candidates were Nationalists. In the Tralee division there were seven nominations, and four of those were chosen by the National League.

The following is the result of the polling:—

Ballinahagish—John Brown and Wm. Denny. The former elected. Ballyseedy—Daniel M'Mahon and Denis Divane; M'Mahon elected. Banna—Thomas Allman, Michael Collins, and Patrick Stack nominated; Collins elected. Baurtregaum—James O'Halloran and Timothy Regan nominated; O'Halloran elected. Brosna—Michael Murphy and Timothy O'Connor nominated; Murphy elected. Clogherbrien—Denis O'Connor, Wm. O'Donnell, and E. R. Murphy nominated; Murphy elected. Dirreen—E. H. O'Connor and Edward Browne nominated; O'Connor elected. Gneeves—J. J. O'Connor, Wm. Curtin, and P. D. Kenny nominated; O'Connor elected. Keelgarrylander—T. Kelleher and M. Prendergast, junr, nominated; Prendergast elected. Killahan—J. Bunyan, J. M'Grath, and P. Collins, nominated; Bunyan elected. Kiltallagh—A. Dely, G. Dowd, and C. O'Neill nominated; O'Neill elected. Millbrook—not decided yet. Mount-eagle—E. J. O'Connor and D. Horan nominated, the voting resulting in a tie, and questions having been raised as to nine of the votes, an appeal will be made to the Local Government Board. O'Brennan—D. J. Keane and J. O'Connell—Keane, elected. Rathass—M. M'Mahon and T. O'Neill, nominated. O'Neill had a majority of votes, but M'Mahon objected to some eight or nine, and the decision of the Local Government Board will be taken. Tubrid—Thomas Egan and J. Dooling nominated—Egan elected. Tralee—Seven nominated for four vacancies, with the following result:—E. R. Murphy (outgoing chairman), 475 votes; M. Quintan, 455; W. O'Donnell, 401; J. P. Stack, 340; P. M'Mahon, 298; J. O'Donnell, 292; W. Denny, 185. The four guardians elected were chosen by the National League.

DINGLE.

The contests in the Dingle Union numbered nine, and the result was anxiously awaited in each of the several contested divisions. There were two nominated for Cloghanie—Nicholas Fitzgerald and Edmund Fitzgerald; the former was elected. For Dunurlin—John Long and Thomas Moriarty. The voting in this division caused great excitement, each of the candidates having a powerful body of canvassers, resulting in the return of Mr. Leng, who letters concerning land, written by Dan who occupies the farm called Gurranebea. I was evicted from in the time of the old League. He sent the first letter to the SENTINEL which I answered in the same. He then sent a second letter to the Kerry Reporter which I answered also in the same. He also sent another to the same paper, in to which I sent one also, but Mr. Quinne I believe is the owner of the Reporter, comp of its length, and said if I shortened it he give it insertion. When I found it was not in I again inquired of him what was the and he made some evasive reply. I went week after week until at length I found no inclination of giving my letter insertion nice specimen of fairplay indeed. Popin Editor, you will insert these few lines in widely read and meritorious paper.

Yours sincerely,

MORE POLICE BATONING.

On Sunday evening an altercation between some country people in Bol and while the dispute was going on five or six policemen arrived on the and proceeded to charge the crowd. are stated to have used their batons on the people without having received least provocation. The people fled in directions, but were pursued by the and mercilessly and indiscriminately oned. The people, it is alleged, retaliated by throwing stones at the police. After people had dispersed, and when they were returning down the street one man named John Goggin was arrested. Constables Brennan and Rielly on a of having thrown stones at the p. While being placed under arrest he was roughly handled. He was thrown on back on the rough pavement, and his coming in contact with the stones received a very ugly wound.

as in the past you will have a favourable financial report at end of this year (applause).

Mr. John O'Donnell proposed Mr. Michl. M'Mahon, as chairman for the ensuing year and said he (Mr. M'Mahon) had been a member of the board for twenty years and had been chairman for four or five years. He had given every satisfaction to the ratepayers and inmates of the house. He need not go into figures like Mr. Fitzgerald, and he now begged to propose him.

Mr. Fitzgerald—The figures are not mine, they are Col. Spaights.

Mr. Michael Prendergast seconded the nomination.

A division was then taken, when there voted for Mr. Murphy—Messrs. M. Brick, M. Collins, J. O'Halloran, W. O'Brien, Michael Murphy, M. Pembroke, W. Barrett, T. Prendeville, G. Fitzgerald (D); Jeremiah J. O'Connor, W. O'Kane, J. O'Halloran, J. Flaherty, T. J. O'Connor, G. Fleming, M. Crowley, E. J. Walsh, H. Breen, J. Keane, T. O'Neill, M. Quinlan, E. R. Murphy, J. Dooling, R. Roche, J.P.; Capt. W. Neligan, J.P.; M. S. Reidy, J.P.; R. Latchford, J.P., and St. J. H. Donovan, J.P.—28.

For Mr. M'Mahon—Messrs. G. Fitzgerald, (A); M. M'Elligott, P. M'Grath, D. M'Mahon, W. Twiss, J. K. O'Connor, J. Kearney, E. Browne, M. Prendergast, P. Dunne, J. O'Donnell, M. M'Mahon, Col. Crosbie, J.P.; Colonel Rowan, J.P.; Capt. Clute, J.P.; A. Blennerhassett, J.P.; F. R. Bateman, J.P.; S. M. Hussey, J.P.; R. M'Cowan, J.P.; Lord Ventry, and Sir R. Blennerhassett—21.

Majority for Mr. Murphy—7.

Did not vote—Thomas O'Connor, J. Brosnan, and David O'Connor.

The Chairman then declared Mr. Murphy elected chairman for the ensuing year, amidst loud applause.

Mr. M'Mahon objected to the election, on the grounds that the proposer, Mr. Fitzgerald had not paid his rates, and a note was taken of the objection.

The Chairman said he need not tell them how thankful he was to them for the compliment they paid him by electing him for the third time as their chairman. Nothing of a political matter had been introduced up to the present, and he was slow to introduce it. He was sure the magistrates who attended there would not think he was speaking of them harshly or disrespectfully, but he could not conceal the fact that these magistrates attended there to-day for no other than a political purpose—

Mr. Roche, J.P.—I rise to a point of order. I don't think it is fair to introduce this. The election has been passed over pleasantly without the introduction of any political matter. The "ex-officio" guardians some of them have voted for you and some for Mr. M'Mahon, and I am sure

The clerk said the board of works had the money, they applied for written several times lately about M. M'Cowan—I think the collector for the coveques, and it is well known to happen to have a few for years, and cannot get a penny for it.

AN EVICTED TENANT

The case of an evicted tenant Rourke, who applied to the board for relief, was next considered.

Mr. Hussey said Rourke was late Mr. Daniel J. O'Connell. His rent was left to valuation; he named Mr. M'Clure, and Mr. Mr. Roche, and by mutual consent the rent at £33 a year. He (Mr. Roche) came into the management of the property in '37, and Mr. Rourke represented to Roche's valuation was less than £35 (Hussey) said very well, that he would let him at the valuation fixed by Roche, and that his valuation was £35. He said what was more he would take £1 that, and he would make that per cent. also agreed to take £20 out of the Relieving-Officer Hickey said that to him for relief, and he did not in the circumstances of the case he let him on the board.

Mr. Breen said he knew the matter. He removed his cattle to the farm, but Mr. Hussey, with his followers and seized them.

Mr. Hussey—I did.

The R.O. was instructed to inquire into the matter.

THE COLLECTORS AGAIN

Before the adjournment of the meeting Roche proposed, and Col. Rowan

"That each collector be required to give security from a guarantee society of one-sixth of his collection; that each collector pay one-half the premium in each case; that the clerk communicate with the societies to ascertain on what terms can be obtained; that the old law be repealed and the present new law be put in force." Adjourned.

KENMARE PETTY SESSIONS

1882 (15) MONDAY.

At the fortnightly Petty Sessions to-day, the only justice present was Francis G. Maybury.

On his taking his seat on the bench, he asked Mr. Mahony, the clerk, to report any custody cases. Mr. Mahony answer to Mr. Creagh, the witness the machines were tested by the ward weights, which had been brought from Tralee.

Creagh asked how did the witness they were standard weights. Witness—I have Sergeant McGovern from Tralee to prove that. Creagh—Tell me now, sergeant, you much experience in testing this weighing machine? Witness—No, this was the first opportunity I had of testing them.

Creagh (to Captain Raymond)—A deal depends on the way the weights placed on the scales, if you stand on centre they will weigh correctly, but if stand on the side of the scale there is a great difference.

Moran (sotto voce) said he noticed the machine always weighing very accurately his worship (Captain Raymond) got it weighed by it (laughter).

Hewson suggested that the case be adjourned for a week, and in the time the machine should be corrected.

Creagh—It is at present right—as one of those machines could be O'Connor—Then if it has been made it must have been wrong (laughter).

Creagh—I say it is near as it can be right. It is utterly absurd to that one of those scales can be cor-

Moran—And it aggravates the case to have the station master's name (laughter).

Sergeant McGovern gave evidence as to the correctness of the standard weights.

Thomas Corbet on behalf of the defendants, said he examined the machine and it was wrong from neglect but he afterwards adjusted it and now it was nearly as to be being accurate.

Creagh then contended that the machine was not used for "trading" as it might be, before the case would come to the meaning of the act of Parliament and consequently their worships dismissed it.

For worships held differently and imposed the nominal fine of £1, which, at suggestion of Mr. Creagh, was increased to £1 1s, in order that an appeal be lodged if council advised defendants to do so.

Earl of Listowel was fined 5s for going with his weigh bridge in the morning not weighing in accordance with the act.

A similar fine for the same offence was imposed on the Lartigue Railway Company.

The amount of the expenses incurred divided, each defendant having to pay its portion.

ASSAULT.

A respectable farmer named John Walsh, of Ahabeg, was summoned by the police for being drunk and disturbing another person on the 26th of the month at Listowel.

Creagh, who defended, said Walsh was the party only when he had been drunk first himself. He had another reason for asking their worships not to impose a fine for the assault and that was that the defendant had been bound to the peace by heavy bonds.

Captain Raymond thought the constables had brought up defendant for being drunk and disorderly and not for assault. Creagh suggested that a fine might be imposed on the defendant for being drunk, to dismiss the case of assault.

Ballymacelligott, defendant. Eliza Lamont, plaintiff; Judy Sullivan and Thomas Sullivan, Annagh, defendants. MARCH 1886
THE TRALEE DISPENSARY.

With reference to the loan of £600 for the building of a new dispensary for Tralee, the board of works wrote forwarding the usual forms to be filled up and asking for plans etc.

Mr. Keane, C.E., was directed to prepare the necessary plans.

TRALEE POOR LAW ELECTIONS.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The nominations for the election of guardians for the several electoral divisions of the Tralee Union took place on Wednesday. Of the 39 divisions of the union there are contests in 10, and of these the one to which most interest attaches is the Tralee division which elects four guardians, and for which four candidates are nominated by the local M'Carthyites, four on behalf of the Parnellites, and three on the independent ticket. The nominations are as follows:—

Ballinorig—J. Cooke (sitting guardian) and P. M'Grath.

Castleisland—J. K. O'Connor, Michael Perbroke (sitting guardians), Terence Brosnan and Denis P. Brosnan.

Ologherbrien—William Barrett (sitting guardian), Jeremiah O'Keeffe and James Kissane.

Doon—G. Fitzgerald (sitting guardian) and James Culloty.

Kilfynn—W. O'Kane (sitting guardian) and E. Hayes.

Kilmurry—P. D. Kenny (sitting guardian) and Maurice Brosnan.

Nchoval—Henry Breen (sitting guardian) and Thomas O'Connor.

Rathass—Michael M'Mahon (sitting guardian), Thomas O'Neill and John Foran.

Scartaglin—C. O'Connor (sitting guardian), J. O'C. Roche and J. Targney).

In Tralee the sitting guardians are E. R. Murphy, M. Quinlan, W. O'Donnell and John Power.

The three former have been nominated, and the others nominated are—Jeremiah Slattery, John O'Donnell, John M. Harrington, M.D.; John Slattery, Robert M'Cowen, junr.; James Baily, M. M'Mahon, Patrick M'Mahon.

Messrs. Jeremiah Slattery, John Slattery, John O'Donnell, and Dr. Harrington are the nominees of the Tralee M'Carthyites.

Messrs. Murphy, Baily, O'Donnell, and Quinlan are the nominees of the Parnellites, and the remaining three go in as independent candidates.

HURLING.

Ballyduff v. Causeway, at Causeway, 17th April—Mr. W. O'Connell referee.

Kilmoyley v. Lerrig, at Tralee, 17th April—Mr. M. Moynihan referee.

A resolution was unanimously passed calling on the referees to, in future, exercise the powers vested in them by putting an effective and summary stop to any breaches of the rules by players.

REVIVAL OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE IN BROSNA.

Brosna, Sunday.

To-day the active members of the National League in past times met for the purpose of taking steps for the re-organization of this branch of the League. A circular from the Central Branch and all present expressed their intention to uphold the policy inculcated in the circular.

Mr. D. W. Curtin, addressing the gathering, said—Gentlemen, the day at length arrived for the sterling of this parish to arise from their slumber and bestir themselves into action in order to show our rulers that we are fit to win for our country. National sentiment on the lines laid down by our patriotic chief, Charles Stewart Parnell. When we look into the record of the League in this parish, we find a long and arduous struggle, formed under the most trying circumstances which reflected credit on the courage and patriotism of the men of the district. But final victory was won if the soldiers ground to after a momentary triumph and pursue their opponents until they lay on the field and bear the palm of triumph. And so must it be with the men who sought and won the

TRESPASS CASES.
Grath, of Ballyclemesiz, charged of trespass of 4 cows on the land of a widow named Mrs. Leahy. The Bench read from Mr. J. W. Leahy in which he (Mr. Leahy) as the plaintiff in dispute, promised Monday next, and arbitrate the case. The case was accordingly adjourned to Monday next.

King preferred a charge against a farmer named Denis Morgan appeared for the defendant. The case was ultimately adjourned pending production of some legal documents.

A GUN LICENCE.
Mr. Roche, of Dromkeen, applied for extension of a magistrate's licence to have a gun. The Bench handed in a copy of the existing licence.

The applicant was a very man, but he (Mr. Boyle) was not granting of licences in that district at all. The Bench said the authorities didn't know, but, unfortunately, it was a misfortune, the extreme of the country, but then the case that were committed. The Bench also testified to the applicant's character. The Bench said he didn't object to the applicant but to the principle. The Bench said that considering the character given of applicant, he would grant the licence.

THE RACES—WEDNESDAY.
The annual meeting of the Ballinacorney Race Club was held last night. The initiative steps were adopted for this year's races more successful of the preceding years. It was held a public meeting in the hall on to-morrow (Thursday) evening. A managing committee will be elected and either the famous Ventry or the very suitable lands of Ballinacorney will be selected for this year's races. The latter spot, commends itself as it affords a splendid course, and can be seen from any point around, and is adjacent to the town of Dingle.

THE DISSOLUTION.
London, Monday.
Mr. Balfour to-day announced that the House would take place on Tuesday, 28th. There was not a large attendance of members, but little excitement, as the interest in the question had been discounted by pre-arranged statements which had pointed out the position to that date. The announcement of the leader of the House associated the House and dissolution as likely to take place that day, but it is understood to be not that Parliament will be formally dissolved on Monday, 27th and that early on Tuesday Majesty will hold her Council for the first time, the proclamation of which will be in the "London Gazette" the same evening. The House will also go out that evening. The House has many private members of Parliament who have already proposed in some cases already to resign their seats, the leading members of the Opposition have not yet written theirs, and are not expected to issue them before next Saturday or Sunday.

who had no money for the dispensation of outdoor relief, and informed them that the guardians would be down immediately.

The following is the text of the communication of the Local Government Board:

"Local Government Board,
Dublin, 21st June, '92.

"SIR,—The Local Government Board for Ireland have had under consideration the minutes of proceedings of the Board of Guardians of Tralee Union of the 15th inst., from which it appears that reports from the relieving officers were before the guardians, stating that they were unable to cash the cheques issued by the guardians, and requesting them to make arrangements for the continuance of outdoor relief. The guardians were not in a position to provide funds for this purpose, and no lodgment of rates had been made, and they adjourned indefinitely the consideration of the relieving officers' application. The Local Government Board have to refer to their letter of the 24th ultimo, in which they adverted to the fact that cheques to the amount of £2,140 had been issued and dishonoured by the treasurer owing to there being no funds in his hands, and the guardians' attention at the same time was called to a report from Mr. Burke, Local Government Board Inspector, from which it appeared that owing to the system which relieving officers were obliged to adopt for supplying relief, the sick and destitute poor suffered deprivation and hardship. The Local Government Board pointed out that such a state of things could not be permitted to continue, and that unless the guardians took effectual steps to meet their engagements and provide for the relief of the destitute, the management of the union could not be allowed to remain in their hands. The guardians, in reply, stated that they expected to be in funds in a fortnight, and the board accordingly deferred taking further action at the time. Three weeks have, however, now elapsed, and the guardians' anticipations have not been realised. According to the minutes of the 15th inst., no lodgments of rates have been made, while the liabilities of the union have increased, and the guardians are unable to provide funds for the relief of the poor. Under those circumstances the relieving officers have applied to this department for instructions as to how they are to act. The Local Government Board feel powerless to assist the relieving officers, or advise them as to the course they should adopt while the administration of the union remains in the hands of the guardians, and they are satisfied that the only course open to them in the interests of the ratepayers, and the sick and destitute poor, is to dissolve the board, and appoint paid officers to carry into execution the provisions of the Poor Law Acts. An order to that effect is enclosed, and a further order appointing vice-guardians will be issued in due course.

"I am, your obedient servant,
"D. J. M'SHEEHAN,
"Assistant Secretary."

The following is a copy of the sealed order:—

"To the Guardians of the Poor of the Tralee Union. To the Clerk of the said Union, and to all others whom it may concern. Whereas, through the default of the Board of Guardians of Tralee Union, the duties of the Board of Guardians of the said Union have now been duly and effectively discharged according to the intention of the Acts in force for the relief of the destitute poor in Ireland. Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board for Ireland do hereby, in exercise of the powers by the said Acts, vested in us in this behalf declare the said Board of Guardians to be dissolved accordingly.

"Sealed with our seal this twenty-first day of June, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-two."

DISSOLUTION.

The Bench said they should fine Mr. Clifford ten shillings. They believed it was not a very serious case of obstruction, and that Mr. Clifford was all through acting under misapprehension. They would also give solicitor's costs against defendant.

There was a second case against Mr. Clifford brought by the Railway Company, for having on the 14th May, obstructed a railway porter named William Connolly.

The same solicitors were engaged in this case as in the previous cases.

William Connolly was examined, and said he was in the goods stores on the evening in question engaged in making out some bills when Mr. Clifford came in and after bustling about for some time came to where he was writing, caught him by the jacket and pulled him down. Mr. Clifford then went to the door and saw Mr. Fitzgerald.

A porter named Fitzgerald also gave evidence in substantiation of the foregoing.

For the defence, a witness named James O'Connor said he was in the goods stores when Mr. Clifford was there. He did not see Mr. Clifford committing any obstruction.

John Clifford, son to defendant, gave evidence of a similar nature.

Mr. Leahy said that in the former case Mr. Clifford got some provocation and they dealt lightly with him. In this case there was no provocation whatever, but he went in a bullying manner and interfered with an official in his work. The majority of the Bench were of opinion that defendant should be fined £1 and solicitor's costs. Mr. Clifford's temper runs away with him. This official was doing his duty when defendant threw him on one side.

A man named Michael Connell was charged, in custody, with having seriously assaulted an old man named Patrick Sullivan last evening. He was also charged with having assaulted Mrs. Sullivan, wife to Patrick Sullivan.

Patrick Sullivan, on being sworn, said he was at his own door about 7 o'clock in the evening when the prisoner came up to him and said—"I have a mind to knock out your brains." He then gave witness a kick in the knee and hip. Accused also struck his wife and knocked her down in the presence of the police.

Constable Meany said he and Constable Holmes were on duty last evening and heard there was a row in Green-lane. They were just entering the lane when they saw Connell knock Mrs. Sullivan in a most brutal manner.

Mrs. Sullivan gave evidence in support of the foregoing.

Mr. Leonard, in giving the decision of the Bench, said—For this outrageous and brutal assault you must go to jail for six months with hard labour, and for the assault on Patrick Sullivan, one month with hard labour, at the expiration of the first sentence. Afterwards he should find sureties for his good behaviour for six months, or in default to go to jail for six months.

A man named John Coffey was charged, in custody, with having dangerously wounded a man named Michael Bowler by striking him with an iron bar and breaking his jaw, in April last.

Coffey was on the run since the date of the occurrence and was captured last evening, in one of the lanes of the town. Bowler's life was in danger for a long time.

After hearing evidence,

Mr. M'Dermott returned the accused for trial, bail being refused.

BREACH OF THE LICENSING ACT.

Jeremiah D. O'Connell, of College-st., was charged with a breach of the Licensing Act.

Mr. Moriarty, solr., defended.

After hearing the evidence, The Bench considered there was a doubt in the case. They would give defendant the benefit of the doubt and dismiss the case.

OTHER CASES.

Mr. D. J. O'Connor was charged by Constable Monahan with furious driving on the 24th May.

On the motion of Mr. Barlow, the Bench adjourned for the temporary duty of the Bench during his illness.

A report was received from the station at Seaside, stating that a rabid dog was destroyed in the town about two months ago.

At the inquest, in the afternoon, the jury moved that they should appoint John Fitzgerald to be the coroner for the district of Seaside, and that they should appoint John Fitzgerald to be the coroner for the district of Seaside.

Mr. Benner moved an amendment to the resolution that the jury should be directed to return a verdict of manslaughter.

The original resolution should be returned.

Mr. Counihan moved that the Bench should be asked to order the jury to return a verdict of manslaughter.

of extracts of the evidence, and a query bearing on the question of Benner as guardian for Ki.

Mr. James Shea (Muck) condoned the motion, it gave between Mr. Benner, the several members of the Bench.

It occurred in this way:—The Chairman having read the paper on which the motion was written.

Mr. Benner accused him of having altered it.

The Chairman said he did not see Mr. Benner.

Mr. Benner—I saw you.

The Chairman—It's a lie.

Mr. Benner—It is not.

The Chairman—It is a lie to it as long as you like, y.

Mr. Benner asked the clerk to draw.

The Chairman said he was coming to the Bench.

Mr. Benner asked for the resolution. He brought the paper.

Mr. Counihan said he did not get the paper.

Mr. Doran said during the hearing he was coming to the Bench.

Mr. Benner (to the chairman) you to the Local Government Board.

The Chairman—You have intelligence of the Board.

Mr. Benner—I know the resolution.

The Chairman said he was withdrawing the expression.

The Chairman said he called Mr. Benner a liar.

Mr. Benner asked the clerk to draw.

The Chairman said he was coming to the Bench.

Mr. Benner said it was the part of the chairman to call Mr. Benner a liar.

Mr. Benner said that he should conduct the business with decorum and decency.

The Chairman (to Mr. Benner) stated a falsehood.

Mr. Benner—I say I am the paper.

The Chairman said he was coming to the Bench.

Mr. Benner again called the chairman a liar.

Mr. Counihan—Tis a lie.

Mr. Myers—You are office now.

Mr. Counihan said that he was obstructing the business.

Mr. Benner said he was down to write an amendment.

The Chairman told him that he would not receive an amendment.

Mr. Counihan said that he was respectable Board since.

Mr. Benner—I have the paper.

The Foreman—It was chiefly with the object of bringing it before you that I put it in the power of His Lordship—You know I possess a power giving you any draft upon the Imperial Exchequer (laughter). I am officially acquainted with the wise and beneficial results that have flowed from the extension of railway communication in almost every county in Ireland. I am fully persuaded that the ratepayers are distinctly or more upon the whole, the approbation of the authorities that such an object as that to which you refer.

The Foreman—We have appointed a committee to meet the ratepayers.

His Lordship—You may work the ratepayers, but the Government that's the point.

The Grand Jury then retired.

IRISH CATTLE TRADERS AND STOCKOWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE EDITOR OF THE KERRY SENTINEL.
Offices, City Arms Hotel,
Prussia Street, Dublin,
2nd March, 1894.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE FOR IRELAND.

DEAR SIR—The urgent need of a Board of Agriculture for Ireland is now generally recognised. As the Irish Cattle Traders and Stockowners' Association initiated this practical idea, and educated public opinion was given to show that it was legal to do so.

Mr Huggard—The cost of getting the order amended is about £40, and in his opinion would not be worth while to incur that expense.

Mr Slattery—We have to pay a rate of £10 a year. It was lodged by the Grand Jury in the bank. It was not paid until due by the board it would save them £10 a year.

Mr O'Keeffe thought that it would not be worth the expense of getting the Provisional Order amended. It was not paid immediately after the Spring Assizes, but towards the end of April, and it was only paying it six weeks before it was due.

It was decided that the board take no action on the matter.

Mr Huggard handed in a bill of costs for work done by him for the board. It amounted to £100, and he asked for a cheque on account, pending it being taxed.

Mr O'Keeffe moved that the cheque be passed on account of £40 which was adopted.

In reply to Mr Hill, Mr Huggard said that in his opinion before the board changed the monthly day of meeting, counsel's opinion should be had. The act stated that they should meet on the first Monday of each month.

A resolution passed at the shareholders' meeting of the Tralee and Dingle Railway, that the representative on the Board of Directors from the Tralee Town Commissioners and Dingle Board of Guardians, hold office for twelve months, and not as hitherto for six months, was adopted.

Mr. Kelliher's notice of motion that the price of gas be increased from its present rate of 4s 2d per thousand cubic feet to 5s, the price that it stood 1st of December, came on.

Mr Kelliher said that it was a matter of the greatest necessity, as the present rate, 4s 2d, did not actually pay for the ordinary cost of manufacturing the gas. He had got figures from Mr Casey, which clearly showed that there would be a loss of £500 which would be borne by the ratepayers of the town, as it was on their security that the works were constructed. Mr Kelliher quoted the figures in support of his motion, and said the largest consumers of gas in the town were the few public institutions, such as the jail and the railways, and they never objected to the price charged them for the gas. They should also look into the extra price of coal this year, and it was just at the time that the coal got so dear that the gas rate was reduced. They had extra liabilities to meet for the coming year, owing to the employment of additional watchmen, the Dingle Railway, and the cost of working the Education Act, and if they continued the reduction in the gas rate it would bring them into a state of bankruptcy.

Mr O'Connor said it was hard on the consumers of gas to be paying for the public lighting.

Mr T Slattery said the consumers were at one time paying as much as 8s. It was then reduced to 6s 8d and 5s. He thought it a hardship on the consumers that they should be paying for the public lighting. Some time ago there was a deficiency of £897, which they had to pay for. He proposed as an amendment that the present price be not changed.

Mr Crowley seconded the amendment, and after a protracted discussion, on a division there voted.

For the resolution—Messrs Kelliher, Harrington, O'Donnell, M'Donnell, Lyons, the improvement of the line was should put themselves in the getting some responsible railway such as the Great Southern and to take up the working of the

Mr Hassey said as he was the Grand Jury who was on which waited on the Grand Jury, he thought it well to give some information current there. In fact, as there were payers there who did not know what circumstances the guarantee line was given it was necessary to give them some explanation of the matter. It was said by a great many that it was an artificial way to promote railwaying guarantees at all, but to the intent the action of the Grand Jury was good. He then referred to the Tralee, Farranfore and Kenmare Railway, and said that they were paying contributions of £1,523 to the county. The Limerick and Dingle Railway and the Tralee and Dingle Railway were also great boons to the county, though they were not well managed. He had to pay taxes for the guarantee lines, but there their liability was much as they were not receiving working expenses and accidents were accidents on them every year they would not be liable for more. When passing the Dingle line there was not any member of the Grand Jury, the guarantee went any further in the cases of the other Railway when a competent engineer was sanctioned the plans of the Government approved of and they would not be running giving the guarantee. They well how this had turned out was a crusher; it was to the Barony of Corkigno heavy tax on the other barony. The question now was how could it be done. When the deputation Sir John Hibbert they asked The share capital was £120,000 they were paying 4 per cent (the deputation) asked that £2,400 should be capitalised to yield £90,000. They also loan of £30,000 at 4 per cent for 49 years to pay off the loan. Then the barony would cost £1,200 a year. The first year would appear a very large one, but formed that the Government proposal of that kind in their railways in Ireland, and the risk in lending it to the barony said farthermore that a free line. The line was 38 miles, Oaherciveen and Kenmare 48 miles, and Mr. Balfour grant to three railways of £100,000 he did not know that Mr. Balfour got much support in Kerry. The Government had got support from it, and, therefore, think it unreasonable that the Dingle Railway should get support from the Government at least of the late Government guarantee railways. The railway was a sound position, it would be a boon to the country. They got a report from Sir John Hibbert that all the baronies were told that all the baronies got was the report of Mr. Balfour that they would be

LIVELY PROCEEDINGS.

The first meeting of the newly elected Board was held on Wednesday, in the Boardroom of the Workhouse. The election of chairman was the first business. There were two candidates for the office—Mr. Richard Latchford, J.P., and Mr. Michael M'Mahon, J.P. The guardians, elected and ex-officio, turned up almost in their full strength, and considerable interest was manifested in the result.

At the inception of the proceedings the clerk pointed out that as the vice-guardians had been up to lately in office the proper course to adopt would be for the meeting to appoint a temporary chairman to preside over the election. If the old guardians had been in office then the chairman, or in his absence, the vice-chairman, or in his absence the deputy vice-chairman should preside, but in the present case they had better appoint a temporary chairman.

Mr. Bateman proposed that Mr. Redmond Roche take the chair, and after a discussion the proposal was agreed to, and Mr. Roche took the chair and the election was proceeded with.

Mr. G. Fitzgerald—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I rise to propose Mr. Richard Latchford for the position of chairman of this board for the ensuing year. In doing so, anything I could say on behalf of Mr. Latchford would be vain, as you all know him as well as I do. He has won a passport for your suffrages here to-day, and that is he has conducted successfully a very large business establishment in the town of Tralee and other places. That must be a guarantee to you that he will successfully conduct the business of this board with the same ability, diligence, and straightforwardness with which he has conducted all his dealings (applause).

Mr. T. J. O'Connor seconded the proposition.

Mr. John O'Donnell—I am going to propose for your adoption a man who is well known to you all. I had pleasure in proposing him on three occasions before, and I trust I will be as successful on this occasion as I have always been. Mr. Michael M'Mahon is a man of long experience in this Board. He understands the working of the Board. He has been five and twenty years connected with it, ten of which he has acted as chairman. I don't know any other member of the board so capable or so competent to manage the business of this board. He has an advantage no other member of the board has. He lives within five minutes walk of the board, and he can attend the duties of the board more regularly than other gentlemen living miles away. I have great pleasure in proposing Mr. Michael M'Mahon of Manor as chairman for the ensuing year.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—I beg to second Mr. M'Mahon's candidature, and in doing so, I am going to read for you what I jotted down this morning relative to what I have to say against Mr. Latchford if you will be pleased to hear me.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—No, we will not object to that.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—It is a matter of serious import to the Board, and I think, Mr. Chairman, I should be heard.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—I came here myself to vote against Mr. Latchford, and I object to hear anything against him (hear, hear). I believe him to be a creditable honest man.

Mr. Latchford—As far as I am personally concerned, I have no objection he should say what he likes.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—It is ridiculous.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—It is a very serious matter.

Mr. Latchford—You had better be careful. Don't say too much.

A Guardian—Close up that paper and sit down.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor remained standing.

Mr. Michael M'Mahon—Mr. O'Connor, don't mind.

Mr. Hogan asked the chairman to keep order.

Chairman—I have seen nothing yet to consider out of order.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—Shall I go on with this matter?

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—I propose an amendment.

Mr. Cooke—I second it.

Chairman—There is no amendment yet.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor (reading)—Gentlemen, ex officio and brother rurals, I have a decided objection to the appointment of Mr. Dick Latchford to fill the chair of this important Board, as it is now nearly two years since I placed in his hands evidence of the population and fraudulent dates of Collector M. Quinlan, the clerk's late father (oh, oh).

Chairman—Now, as chairman here, I think I ought to interpose.

Mr. Latchford—Let him go on.

Chairman—I don't think this has any relation to the business at present before the Board.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—I object to this.

Mr. Hogan—If he wants to stand up let him stand up and speak without the written paper.

Mr. M. S. Reidy, J.P.—If you got his son's appointment you would like it better.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—What does the so-called baron say?

The matter then ended and the election was proceeded with. The voting was as follows:—

For Mr. Latchford—Messrs. Timothy Crowley, John Cooke, Michael S. O'Sullivan, Michael Murphy, Maurice K. Hogan, Wm. O'Donnell, Garrett Fitzgerald, Jeph J. O'Connor, John Griffin, Cornelius Skeltery, Martin Brosnan, Thomas J. O'Connor, Thomas Walsh, Henry Breen, Thomas Keane, James Baily, Francis M'Donnell, John C. D. Hurley, J.P.; R. Roche, J.P.; St. J. H. Donovan, J.P.; W. Spring, J.P.; Jerh' Roche, J.P.; M. S. Reidy, J.P.; Robert Fitzgerald, J.P.; Capt. Thomas O'Hute, J.P.; G. F. Trench, J.P.; Earl of Lintow, Capt. James M'Gill, and F. R. Bateman, J.P.;—29.

For Mr. M'Mahon—Messrs. Thomas M'Ellistram, Timothy Fisher, Myles Cronin, Daniel M'Mahon, Timothy Regan, Thomas J. Corcoran, C. D. O'Connor, Moe O'Connor, Patrick Dowd, Nicholas Rice, Charles O'Neill, Patrick Danne, Eugene O'Connor, Patrick M'Mahon, Cornelius O'Connor, John O'Donnell, Thos. Regan, Robert M'Cowan, Jnr.; Arthur Blennerhassett, J.P.; Robert M'Cowan, J.P.; John G. Hewson, J.P.; Michael M'Mahon, J.P.; and Thomas Galvin, J.P.—23.

Did not vote—R. Savage and Jeremiah Brosnan.

The chairman declared Mr. Latchford elected.

Mr. Latchford then took the chair, and in returning thanks said—Lord Lintow and Gentlemen—I have often wished, in the course of my experience, that I had ability and power to make a speech, but I never wished it more than I do upon the present occasion. Whilst in my own room I imagine that some times the most brilliant ideas run through my head, but I find that the very moment I hear the sound of my own voice they vanish into thin air. However, it would, on the present occasion, be the merest affectation on my part if I were to say or to pretend that I do not feel highly gratified at the result of your generous voting to-day (you're worthy of it). I stand before you, gentlemen, as a humble occupant of this chair. I regret extremely that in my election, which of course is very pleasing to me, that a certain section of this Board may feel a disappointment. I assure you it is with mixed feelings I express this regret, but, gentlemen, I am sure that from the amiable manner in which the other candidate for the chair has acted this morning, that it may be at a future time, and not a very remote period, his defeat of to-day may be turned into victory in the future—

Mr. M'Mahon—I never courted from any of your supporters.

Mr. Latchford—I have one remark to make with regard to politics, and I think it is necessary for me as chairman of this Board to clear the way before myself and before you. The moment that door closes upon me inside this room I have no politics whatever. I have made up my mind that I would not be chairman of any party, that I would not be leader of any party in politics—in fact that I would have no politics at all. I agreed originally to contest this chair on the understanding that I should be considered after my election a non-politician (hear, hear). I agreed to contest it on the understanding that I was to be allowed carry on the business of the Board, not as a politician, but as a business man, dead to business, and determined to carry on the business of the Board in the most economical manner possible (hear, hear). Our baggage to-day is upon the bounding wave, every sail is set, every rope is fixed, our hands are placed as it were on the wheel. We are now as it were on trial, and it depends upon you whether the conduct of the business for the coming year—whether or not we shall be worthy of your votes in the year to come. I believe we are all perfectly satisfied that the business has been conducted very ably by the two gentlemen who have just now ceased their operations (hear, hear), and I think we may safely say that the best thanks of this Board and of the united parishes are due to the gentlemen who have just gone from amongst us. They have left us a good example, and if we only follow in their footsteps, I think not alone will this Board give us their thanks, but the parishes throughout the union will thank us also. Now allow me to say our duties to-day are not in politics. Our duties are concerned with the poor people in the parishes over whom we have charge, our duties are connected with the ratepayers, our duty is to keep down the rates as much as we possibly can, and our other duties are to administer the rates without fear, favour, or affection, honestly and above board (applause). I don't intend to occupy your time very long, but I would respectfully ask every section of this Board of all creeds and politics, whether divided or undivided, I ask you respectfully to lend me your assistance to carry on the business of the Board to a successful issue during our year of office. It is morally impossible that a man of my humble ability, used only to the office and the desk, used only to the hard facts of a business career, can understand the necessary duties which this Board will entail upon me, but I shall trust to your intelligence—your bright intelligent minds—for assistance, and I hope, with the blessing of God, we will be able to steer the barque of this union to a safe and prosperous haven. I desire to thank you sincerely for the honor you have conferred upon me (applause).

Mr M'Mahon—Brother farmers, I feel great pleasure in having the majority of you on this day. I would have a great deal more were it not for the calamity which has afflicted Castleisland. A number of my supporters are laid sick, but thank God they are recovering and they will account for themselves at a future day. However, as it is, with the small number we have a majority of the elected guardians. About Mr Letchford's career as a public man, I'll say nothing. I know him since boyhood, and he may be a fair man, but, as a politician, he is an impostor. Mr Donovan, his lieutenant, I was satisfied, and thought he should cast his vote for me—

Mr Fitzgerald rose to order.

Mr Donovan—Not at all.

Mr M'Mahon—How dare you interrupt me. I thought he should cast his vote for me, the porter agent from the "Hollow Square."

Chairman—I must call you to order.

Mr M'Mahon—Unfortunately from time immemorial the denizens of the "Hollow Square" were rotten, treacherous, and deceitful.

Chairman—I am surprised at you, Mr M'Mahon.

Mr Donovan—I am not going to reply to what has been said. I think my friends know me better, and know my actions (applause). I rise to propose for the vice-chair Mr Jeremiah Roche of Castleisland. I believe he will help you in every way, and give every assistance.

Mr T J O'Connor seconded the proposition.

Mr J O'Donnell proposed Mr C D O'Connor for the position.

Mr O'Connor declined to accept it. He thought Mr Roche in looking for the position was looking for honors too quickly, and he did not think the post of vice-chairman was any honor to a magistrate.

Mr H Breen—Between ye it is.

There being no other proposal, Mr Roche was declared duly elected.

Mr Roche suitably returned thanks, and promised to do his duty honestly, and to the best of his ability.

On the motion of Mr Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr Baily, Mr William O'Donnell was elected unanimously to the position of deputy vice-chairman.

Richard Latchford J.P.

v. Michael McHale J.P.

LIVELY PROCEEDINGS.

The first meeting of the newly elected Board was held on Wednesday, in the Boardroom of the Workhouse. The election of chairman was the first business. There were two candidates for the office—Mr. Richard Latchford, J.P., and Mr. Michael M'Mahon, J.P. The guardians, elected and ex-officio, turned up almost in their full strength, and considerable interest was manifested in the result.

At the inception of the proceedings the clerk pointed out that as the vice-guardians had been up to lately in office the proper course to adopt would be for the meeting to appoint a temporary chairman to provide over the election. If the old guardians had been in office then the chairman, or in his absence, the vice-chairman, or in his absence the deputy vice-chairman should preside, but in the present case they had better appoint a temporary chairman.

Mr. Bateman proposed that Mr. Edmund Roche take the chair, and after a discussion the proposal was agreed to, and Mr. Roche took the chair and the election was proceeded with.

Mr. G. Fitzgerald—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I rise to propose Mr. Richard Latchford for the position of chairman of this board for the ensuing year. In doing so, anything I could say on behalf of Mr. Latchford would be vain, as you all know him as well as I do. He has won a passport for your suffrages here to-day, and that is he has conducted successfully a very large business establishment in this town of Tralee and other places. That must be a guarantee to you that he will successfully conduct the business of this board with the same ability, diligence, and straightforwardness with which he has conducted all his dealings (applause).

Mr. T. J. O'Connor seconded the proposition.

Mr. John O'Donnell—I am going to propose for your adoption a man who is well known to you all. I had pleasure in proposing him on three occasions before, and I trust I will be as successful on this occasion as I have always been. Mr. Michael M'Mahon is a man of long experience in this Board. He understands the working of the Board. He has been five and twenty years connected with it, ten of which he has acted as chairman. I don't know any other member of the board so capable or so competent to manage the business of this board. He has an advantage no other member of the board has. He lives within five minutes walk of the board, and he can attend the duties of the board more regularly than other gentlemen living miles away. I have great pleasure in proposing Mr. Michael M'Mahon of Manor as chairman for the ensuing year.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—I beg to second Mr. M'Mahon's candidature, and in doing so, I am going to read for you what I jotted down this morning relative to what I have to say against Mr. Latchford if you will be pleased to hear me.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—No, we will not object to that.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—It is a matter of serious import to the Board, and I think, Mr. Chairman, I should be heard.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—I came here myself to vote against Mr. Latchford, and I object to hear anything against him (hear, hear). I believe him to be a creditable honest man.

Mr. Latchford—As far as I am personally concerned, I have no objection he should say what he likes.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—It is ridiculous.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—It is a very serious matter.

Mr. Latchford—You had better be careful. Don't say too much.

A Guardian—Close up that paper and sit down.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor remained standing.

Mr. Michael M'Mahon—Mr. O'Connor, don't mind.

Mr. Hogan asked the chairman to keep order.

Chairman—I have seen nothing yet to consider out of order.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—Shall I go on with this matter?

Mr. C. D. O'Connor—I propose an amendment.

Mr. Cooke—I second it.

Chairman—There is no amendment yet.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor (reading)—Gentlemen, ex-officio and brother rurals, I have a decided objection to the appointment of Mr. Dick Latchford to fill the chair of this important Board, as it is now nearly two years since I placed in his hands evidence of the peculation and fraudulent dates of Collector M. Quinlan, the clerk's late father (oh, oh).

Chairman—Now, as chairman here, I think I ought to interpose.

Mr. Latchford—Let him go on.

Chairman—I don't think this has any relation to the business at present before the Board.

Mr. O. D. O'Connor—I object to this.

Mr. Hogan—If he wants to stand up let him stand up and speak without the written paper.

Mr. M. S. Reidy, J.P.—If you got his son's appointment you would like it better.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor—What does the so-called baron say?

The matter then ended and the election was proceeded with. The voting was as follows:—

For Mr. Latchford—Messrs. Timothy Crowley, John Cooke, Michael S. O'Sullivan, Michael Murphy, Maurice K. Hogan, Wm. O'Donnell, Garrett Fitzgerald, John J. O'Connor, John Griffin, Cornelius Slattery, Martin Brosnan, Thomas J. O'Connor, Thomas Walsh, Henry Breen, Thomas Keane, James Baily, Francis McDonnell, John O'D Hurley, J.P.; R. Roche, J.P.; St. J. H. Donovan, J.P.; W. Spring, J.P.; Josh Roche, J.P.; M. S. Reidy, J.P.; Robert Fitzgerald, J.P.; Capt. Thomas O'Connell, J.P.; G. F. Treach, J.P.; Earl of Distowel, Capt. James M'Gill, and F. E. Bateman, J.P.;—29.

For Mr. M'Mahon—Messrs. Thomas M'Elister, Timothy Flaherty, Miles Cronin, Daniel M'Mahon, Timothy Regan, Thomas J. Jorcoran, O. D. O'Connor, Mr. O'Connor, Patrick Dowd, Nicholas Rice, Charles O'Neill, Patrick Dunne, Eugene O'Connor, Patrick M'Mahon, Cornelius O'Connor, John O'Donnell, Thos. Hogan, Robert M'Gowan, Jaur, Arthur Blannery.

Did not vote—R. Savage and Jeremiah Brosnan.

The chairman declared Mr. Latchford elected.

Mr. Latchford then took the chair, and in returning thanks said—Lord Distowel and Gentlemen—I have often wished, in the course of my experience, that I had ability and power to make a speech, but I never wished it more than I do upon the present occasion. Whilst in my own rooms I imagine that some times the most brilliant ideas run through my head, but I find that the very moment I hear the sound of my own voice they vanish into thin air. Mr. Donovan—I am not going to reply to what has been said. I think my friends know me better, and know my actions (applause). I rise to propose for the vice-chair Mr. Jeremiah Roche of Castleisland. I believe he will help you in every way, and give every assistance.

Mr. T. J. O'Connor seconded the proposition.

Mr. J. O'Donnell proposed Mr. C. D. O'Connor for the position.

Mr. O'Connor declined to accept it. He thought Mr. Roche in looking for the position was looking for honors too quickly, and he did not think the post of vice-chairman was any honor to a magistrate.

Mr. H. Breen—Between ye it is.

There being no other proposal, Mr. Roche was declared duly elected.

Mr. Roche suitably returned thanks, and promised to do his duty honestly, and to the best of his ability.

On the motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Baily, Mr. William O'Donnell was elected unanimously to the position of deputy vice-chairman.

THE CASTLEISLAND FEVER EPIDEMIC.

Mr. Roche called attention to the practice of medical men in Castleisland giving certificates that no fever existed in a house after the patient had died, or been removed to hospital. Dr. Falvey had stated at the recent prosecution that the germs of typhoid would remain in a house for an indefinite period, if a proper disinfectant was not used. Mr. Hickey, the relieving officer, could tell them a case in point. A brother-in-law of his died 2½ months ago from typhoid, and his brother had now contracted the disease. Under these circumstances, he thought the doctors should give no certificates to any persons that had fever in their houses until they were perfectly satisfied that the houses were thoroughly disinfected.

Mr. Hogan said he visited the creamery last September, and the sanitary condition of it was a perfect disgrace, and that before the very eyes of the relieving officer. The refuse that was allowed to accumulate in the yard was scandalous, and he said at the time that if it did not bring disease in the district disease would never come there. He had to hold his nose passing up and down there. The place was never washed until Dr. Brown inspected it, and there was no animal burial there. There was nothing to take away the refuse to the main sewer of the town.

Mr. Roche—What becomes of it so?

Mr. Hogan—It is left to 'pro bono publico'.

Replying to Mr. Hogan,

The Relieving Officer said he saw the place last September and did not see the bad state of things depicted by Mr. Hogan.

Mr. Roche said the closest supervision should be exercised in the creamery if the theory of the medical men was correct. One of the creamery proprietors had stated at the prosecution in Castleisland that the milk after being refused was placed in different cans and brought back to the creamery again. If that state of things was allowed to continue, they could never hope to cope with the epidemic.

Mr. Hogan said it did not matter who brought the milk. A card of ownership had to be handed in with each quantity of milk, and the creamery people should know the owners. They should do everything in their power to prevent the spread of the epidemic, and the Relieving Officer should prosecute in every case where he could find evidence.

Mr. O'Connor proposed that the Local Government Board be asked to hold a medical conference in Castleisland, and to collect all the information they could in reference to the epidemic and the best means of coping with it.

Ultimately, it was decided to call on the medical officers not to give certificates except where they were perfectly satisfied fever houses were disinfected, as the Relieving Officer stated he was in all cases met with these certificates when he threatened a prosecution.

The Board then adjourned.

THE CASTLEISLAND FEVER EPIDEMIC.

The weekly meeting of the Guardians was held in the board-room at 12 o'clock on Wednesday.
Mr R Latchford, J.P., (Chairman), presided.
Also present—Messrs J Roche, J.P., V.C.; M. M. Mahon, J.P.; R. M. Cowen, J.P.; M. Mahon, J.O'Donnell, D. M. Mahon, G. Fitzgerald, J. Bailey, O. D. O'Connor, M. Hogan, E. O'Connor, F. M. Donnell, M. Brown, J. Cooke, T. M. Ellistrom, T. Keane, H. Boyle.

Dr Browne, Local Government Inspector; Dr Harold, Castleisland; Dr F J Falvey, Tralee; and Dr Rice, Castleisland, were also in attendance.

STATE OF THE HOUSE.

No in house, 408; admitted during week, 25; discharged, 23; died, 5; No at corresponding period last year, 414.

On out-door relief, 256 cases, comprising 463 persons, at a total cost of £24 6s 5d. The amount charged to Tralee is £7 5s.

THE OUT DOOR RELIEF.

During the applications for relief, Mr M. Cowen remarked that the Guardians should be careful, and not be too liberal in giving out-door relief. They should follow the example of the Vice-Guardians, and be a little careful, otherwise they would have these applications every day in the week.

Mr M. Mahon said they were not bound to follow the example of the Vice-Guardians. It was not the out-door relief that brought down the Vice-Guardians here, but the rates were plundered in different ways.

Mr M. Cowen proposed that no relief be given in the case then before the board. He did it for a test.

Mr M. Mahon moved an amendment, which was carried by eleven votes to four.

THE FEVER EPIDEMIC.

Mr Roche said a committee consisting of Doctors Browne, Falvey, Harold, Rice and Mr O'Connor and himself had been discussing the epidemic of fever at present raging in Castleisland, and before telling the Board the decision they had come to, he wished to call attention to a paragraph appearing in the "Examiner" on Monday. It stated the epidemic was nearly altogether confined to Cordal, and also that the panic from the beginning was worse than the disease itself. He wished that were so, but unhappily it was not. He believed they had over 200 cases in that district since November raging over Migh, Nohoval, Maglass, and Dooneep, and of course they had also a share in Castleisland. Of course he was happy to tell them the disease was somewhat on the decline. Dr Harold said he had six cases last week, and Dr Rice three, and that was a matter they had to be grateful for. They (the committee) had been discussing the entire matter, and he would read the suggestions of Dr Browne on the subject:—

- 1—House to house visitation, and careful inspection of the district by S S Officer to ascertain whether cases of illness exist, and bring such under the notice of the Medical Officer, and for the detection of nuisances. An assistant sanitary sub-officer is requisite.
- 2—Thorough disinfection, and cleansing of all infected premises.
- 3—A strict watch to be kept to prevent articles of food from infected houses being disposed of for consumption.
- 4—Infected milk to be seized, and owners proceeded against under Sec 132 Public Health Act.

I would also recommend the adoption by the Sanitary Authority of the Infectious Diseases Notification Act and Infectious Diseases Prevention Act, and the appointment of an inspector of dairies, etc., under the Contagious Diseases Act. It would be the duty of the Inspector to visit all dairies in the district and see that they were kept in a clean condition, etc.

Mr Roche continuing said one of the most important things in the suggestions of Dr Browne was the appointment of an assistant, as it was impossible for Mr Hickie to discharge all the duties. He thought himself it would be utterly impossible to prevent milk coming from diseased houses to the creamery. This is equally false; there is one between the creamery and the main drain, the water from the creamery constantly flowing through it so as to keep it clean.

4th—That there was no sewerage. This like the next is equally false. Why, we have the most perfect sewerage that it is possible for us to have. There is a channel along the creamery (inside) where all the water flows. It then passes through the wall where there is a patent trap so as to prevent any smell coming into the creamery, it then passes through a channel and through a water closet to the main drain, where it is taken off outside the town.

Mr. Hogan's desire to close the creamery must be very great, when he forgets that Dr. Falvey proved on oath only a few days before that it was in a perfect sanitary condition. Dr. Brown, who inspected the place several times, stated the same. We have refrained from going more fully into the subject at present, although we could give the Guardians some startling facts as to how this cry has been got up against the creamery by self interested persons, as we have placed the matter in our solicitor's hands, with instructions to bring an action against Mr. Hogan for £1,000 for the statements used by him, which are most damaging and injurious to our business.

We hope to bring out the whole truth at the trial in Dublin, and to prove by the highest authorities and experts on the subject that the creamery has not been the means of spreading the fever epidemic, and that this cry has been got up by interested and vindictive persons with the object of closing up the creamery, which we will not now on any account do. At the same time, if we believed for one moment that the creamery was the cause of the epidemic, we should close it up at once.

Dr. Browne said as his name had been mentioned in the report, he wished to say a few words. He did not report on the sanitary condition of the creamery, but he directed the attention of the medical officer to the unsanitary condition of the surroundings—the yard and drain, and so forth.

Dr. Harold—That is so.

Mr. Roche said he thought it right to state when the discussion occurred there was no mention made of the creamery; it was about the yard, and as regards the sewerage Mr. Hogan said nothing about it. He, himself, put the question to R. O. Hickie, and he told him the sewerage was imperfect, and that there was no connection between the main drainage and the sewer.

Dr. Browne—The inside of the creamery appears to be kept very clean, but it is the outside; the surroundings.

Mr. Roche—I don't know whether it is right for me to notice the cry that has been got up—

Mr. Hogan said he stated there in defence to and defiance of that letter that what he said last day was that in the creamery yard he saw green stuff. He did not go inside the door, and he spoke of the place outside. He (the writer of the letter) said it had been continually limewashed, and he (Mr. Hogan) now asked Dr. Harold was the outside of the creamery white-washed.

Dr. Harold—Part of it.

Mr. Hogan—How long has that been done?

Dr. Harold—I could not tell you.

Mr. Hogan—From the windows to the ground it is white-washed. How long has that been done?

Dr. Harold—I believe since that cry got out.

Mr. Hogan said that proved his statement was correct. He did not go inside the creamery, and mentioned the creamery yard, and not the inside.

The following report from Dr. Falvey was then read:—

"I beg to report that three cases of fever were recently sent from the Union Hospital to the County Fever Hospital. One of the cases—a girl from the vicinity of Ballyseedy—was in an advanced stage of disease, having been well covered with typhus spots. The disease did not originate in the house. The patient was admitted previous to my morning visit. I would ask you to impress on the relieving officers the necessity—before issuing tickets of admission—of consulting the medical officer of each district to restoring public confidence and for public safety, I recommend that a searching sworn inquiry be held into it."

ANOTHER REPORT.

Dr. J. R. Hayes, Tralee, reported that on Thursday, the 29th, accompanied by Dr. Browne, he visited a house at Shanavally, and found a man named Hogan and his two daughters down with typhoid fever. He had one of the girls removed to hospital, and the house disinfected. In another house they visited they found that two members of the family had been removed to hospital, and in a third house they found two boys, suffering from typhoid fever, a third having been previously removed to hospital. On enquiring they found separated milk had been used before and during the illness in two of the houses, and the third they said they only used it for baking bread. Near Gortalea he found a boy in a high fever; he had been in the service of a farmer, who had been ill some time previous. The boy stated they used separated milk at the house. Those were the only cases of fever he learned of in his district, but he had seen other cases in the Castleisland district in private practice. He strongly recommended the guardians to take immediate and effective steps to check the course and spread of this dreadful disease, and under the Public Health Act, any person is liable to prosecution in whose house infectious disease existed by sending milk for sale, or otherwise, from such house, and the owner of any creamery who took such milk and afterwards distributed it was likewise liable to prosecution.

Dr. Browne said he was going to say there were some cases of fever in the town of Tralee.

Dr. Falvey said that was so, and he would report to the Urban Authority on the subject on Friday.

Chairman—I think we should all feel perfectly satisfied with the action our Medical Officer has taken on the matter. Whether it is a matter for this board to mix itself up is another question. I believe the entire thing will be enquired into by the Local Government Board, and they will report on the termination of the enquiry. I suppose we are all satisfied our Medical Officer has done his duty.

Mr. Roche—I think he has done it very efficiently.

It was ordered to insert both reports in the minutes.

Relieving Officer Hickie said, in reply to questions put him by members of the Board, that there were two prosecutions against the Creamery which would be heard at the Petty Sessions on Thursday.

A bill for £2 5s 6d for attendance at sanitary prosecutions in Castleisland and travelling expenses was laid before the Board.

Mr. Hogan questioned the amount; he thought one guinea a day ought to be sufficient. They were in front of a very heavy year of expense in Castleisland.

Mr. C. D. O'Connor thought such expenses should be added to the fines by the magistrates at Petty Sessions.

The Chairman said Dr. Falvey had attended on several other occasions in the district and made no charge whatever.

The Board passed the amount.

A bill for £36 was put in from Mr. John B. Healy, the first instalment of his contract for work done at the Castleisland waterworks.

Mr. Hickson, C.E., certified for the amount.

Mr. Hogan questioned the amount of the bill.

Mr. E. O'Connor said he was afraid this unfortunate ditch water would turn out as bad as the Dingle Tramway, and he would like to know if there was any finality about these works.

A bill for the following amounts from Mr. G. A. E. Hickson, C.E., was also laid before the Board:—

Examining source of water supply, £2 2s; inspection of tanks and filter beds at water supply, £2 2s; preparation of plans and specifications for alterations, £2 2s; and attending Dr. Brown at inspection, £2 2s.

Mr. Hogan thought the first two items might be said to refer to the one inspection.

A bill for the whole amount was passed.

Mr. John Healy, contractor, Tralee, applied for an instalment of £100 for work done at the new dispensary house, Tralee.

Mr. Hickson, C.E., gave a certificate.

4. Infected milk to be seized, and owners proceeded against under Sec 132 Public Health Act.
I would also recommend the adoption by the Sanitary Authority of the Infectious Diseases Notification Act and Infectious Diseases Prevention Act, and the appointment of an inspector of dairies, etc., under the Contagious Diseases Act. It would be the duty of the Inspector to visit all dairies in the district and see that they were kept in a clean condition, etc.
Mr Roche continuing said one of the most important things in the suggestions of Dr Browne was the appointment of an assistant, as it was impossible for Mr Roche to discharge all the duties. He thought himself it would be utterly impossible to prevent milk coming from diseased houses to the creamery unless this inspector was appointed. He did not care how careful the creamery people were this milk would come in without their knowledge, people would send in their milk surreptitiously, and if that was allowed to exist the epidemic would keep smouldering during the summer. He would move that the assistant inspector be at once appointed.
Mr C D O'Connor seconded it.
Mr O'Donnell—Wouldn't it be well to close it up altogether.
Dr Browne—There is no power. He would suggest that they appoint the most competent man that they could get. He also mentioned that the two Acts referred to should be adopted by resolution and a fortnight's notice given.
Mr. Roche—The Dispensary Committee so far back as six weeks ago, took action in this matter, and asked the vice-guardians for a careful and searching inquiry.
Dr Browne said he was glad to say from the report of the medical officers that the disease was on the decline. Where new cases used to occur at the rate of five a day, they had only five or six in the week now.
Mr Roche said the most important thing was that the medical officers should not give certificates until morally assured there was no disease in the house.
Dr Browne said he thought in future there would be no certificates given unless where the doctors were perfectly satisfied efficient measures of disinfection had been carried out.
Mr Hogan said at a special meeting of the Castleisland Dispensary on 29th March a resolution was proposed calling on the officials of the hospital not to allow any persons from outside visit patients, and on Sunday, 8th April, parties were admitted there, and patients who were convalescent were told of the deaths outside.
Dr Browne—That is undoubtedly, objectionable. It rests in the hands of the doctors, and they should give distinct instructions no persons are to be allowed in.
Dr Harold said instructions to that effect had been given.
Dr Rice said he told the nurses to allow no outsiders in, and he turned one person out himself. It was useless for the doctors to give instructions if they were not carried out by the officials.
On the motion of Mr C D O'Connor, a Mr M'Donnell, of Castleisland, was appointed inspector, and Mr Roche gave notice of adopting the two Acts mentioned by Dr Browne.
The following letter from the Creamery Company was then read by Mr Roche:—
Our attention has been called to a report of your Board on last Wednesday, from which it would appear Mr Hogan made the following statements:—
1st—"That he visited the creamery last September, and that the sanitary condition was a disgrace, etc."
Now we state emphatically that there is no truth whatever in his statement as regards the sanitary condition of the creamery, it being as clean as it was possible to have it. It seems curious if Mr Hogan had the public health at heart, he did not call the attention of the authorities to it, and have us prosecuted as he now seems so anxious to do.

Mr. Hogan said that proved his statement was correct. He did not go inside the creamery, and mentioned the creamery yard, and not the inside.
The following report from Dr. Falvey was then read:—
"I beg to report that three cases of fever were recently sent from the Union Hospital to the County Fever Hospital. One of the cases—a girl from the vicinity of Bally-seedy—was in an advanced stage of disease, having been well covered with typhus spots. The disease did not originate in the house. The patient was admitted previous to my morning visit. I would ask you to impress on the relieving officers the necessity—before issuing tickets of admission—of consulting the medical officer of each district as to the nature of the disease, and to send all cases of infectious disease to the Fever Hospital, and not to the Union Hospital, which is devoted entirely to all medical and surgical cases of a non-infectious character.
In the interest of Public Health, and owing to the widespread alarm caused by the present outbreak of Typhoid and Typus Fevers I feel bound to bring under your notice three letters that appeared recently in the local papers over the name of Dr. Fitzmaurice, Medical Officer of the County Fever Hospital. I would not trouble with them, but they have a very serious bearing on the present epidemic, and on the public mind. I lay the letters before you as they appeared.
The first letter is dated March 9th, and appeared a few days after my first report to your Board. The following paragraph is from this letter—"The epidemic in my opinion is atmospheric, and is virulent form of influenza (a much more treacherous disease than typhoid) affecting the head, chest, and spine, and attacking several persons distant from each other simultaneously."
In the Second letter, dated March 22nd, (after Dr. Browne's inspection) he reiterates the same statement, adding "There are 34 cases under treatment, and there is no case of contagious disease in the hospital."
In the third letter, April 3rd, the following very significant statement appears:—"Dr. Falvey says he ordered a case of typhus into hospital. There was not a spot of typhus in his body, and he died in a few days after admission with the identical symptoms of the bad Castleisland cases."
The point in these letters that I want to draw your special attention to is the fact that Dr. Fitzmaurice publicly or repeatedly states that the epidemic is not typhoid that it is influenza, and that the case of typhus sent by me to the hospital was not typhus at all, but a disease presenting the identical symptoms of the bad Castleisland cases, which, according to Dr Fitzmaurice, is influenza. Now this is a very serious matter, and should be closely and carefully inquired into. On one hand you have an extensive and fatal outbreak of disease, pronounced to be typhoid fever by six physicians, including the Local Government Inspector. You have very expensive machines brought to bear to stamp out—not influenza—but typhoid; you have the patients in the town and Hospital of Castleisland and surrounding districts treated by the local physicians for typhoid and typhus, and you have the Creamery Company prosecuted and fined for receiving milk from houses tainted with typhoid and not influenza. On the other hand a large number of patients have to be sent to the County Fever Hospital under the sole care of a physician who states again and again that the disease is not typhoid but one of a totally different character, and presumably receiving different treatment, and this is an hospital which is subject to no independent inspection—where the officers of the Sanitary Authorities are most jealously excluded—where Dr Browne, Local Government Board Inspector, and myself, were told there was not a case of infection, and where in one hour

...A cheque for the amount was passed.
A cheque for £1 was passed to Dr Roche for attending at sanitary proceedings in Castleisland.
A bill for the following amounts from Mr G A B. Hickson, C.E., was also laid before the Board:—
Examining, source of water supply, £2 2s; inspection of tanks and filter beds at water supply, £2 2s; preparation of plans and specifications for alterations, £2 2s; and attending Dr Brown at inspection, £2 2s.
Mr Hogan thought the first two items might be said to refer to the one inspection.
A bill for the whole amount was passed.
THE TRAILER DISPENSARY.
Mr John Hooley, contractor, Tralee, applied for an instalment of £100 for work done at the new dispensary house, Tralee.
Mr Hickson, C.E., gave a certificate.
The Clerk said they had not got the second instalment from the Board of Works yet.
It was ordered to pass a cheque for the amount subject to the loan being received.
The Local Government Board wrote agreeing to accept the resignation of Mr J. Brogan as a contractor, he having been elected a guardian for the union.
THE CREDIT BALANCE.
Mr McMahon remarked that the last two rates struck were £11,300 and £11,400 respectively; all the money had now run out, and they had to face the union with something less than £3,000 in other years. It was impossible it could be done.
Chairman—So that in order to get on we must keep the expenditure very low.
DISQUALIFYING A CANDIDATE.
Mr P. McMahon proposed the following:—"That the Local Government Board furnish this board with a copy of the correspondence (if any) in reference to the disqualifying of Mr Michael McElligott, the elected guardian for the division of Ardfer, and the clerk be directed to furnish to the board his reasons for excluding the name from the list of guardians."
Clerk—I don't know whether I should make any observation. To start with, there is no correspondence, and, secondly, I am not bound to submit my reasons to this board. I have disqualified him, and if I have acted inaccurately Mr McElligott should question the matter.
Subsequently, a division was taken as to whether the resolution would be received, and on a division it was agreed to receive it by eight votes to three.
Mr O'Donnell asked how much of what had been done by the collector, M. Quinlan, Tralee, had been got in by the Vice-guardians, or how much was lost to the proceedings taken against his sureties. He understood the Vice-guardians went to a great deal of expense in hunting up the sureties.
Clerk—Mr. Huggard reported he got £50 from the sureties, and £40 was got from Mr. Quinlan himself and £10 for some stones seized. The actual amount would be £60, but there were £25 or £27 doubtful items, where people could produce no writing that they had paid their rates.
FINANCIAL.
The Clerk reported the payments for the week amounted to £250; the credit balance was £284, but there were cheques out which would more than cover that.
Mr. Hogan said it had gone over the country there had been a credit balance of £2,000 when the Vice-guardians left, and it would not look well after a week to see there was not a penny.
The Clerk said there was a balance of £2,000, but the Vice-guardians left on 28th March, and the contractors bills were not then in the master's hands, and therefore, they could not pay them, and when those bills came in the balance was wiped out.
Mr. M. McMahon said an amount of misleading statements were published from that office from time to time during the time the Vice-guardians were there.
Clerk—The only thing the reporters did was to take the bank balance.
Mr. McMahon said in the latter end of '92 it appeared in the local press that the union had a credit balance of £800, and when an inquiry was made at the Treasurer's next day it was found the union was £700 in debt. That was misleading, but he did not say the clerk gave the information.
Clerk—That statement didn't leave this office. The reporter simply took the debtor balance.
Mr. Roche said no amount of logic would convince any member of the Board that the Vice-guardians did not keep down the rates to a considerable extent. In his district at one time under the old Board the outdoor relief amounted from £14 to £17, and since the Vice-guardians came in at no time has it reached £5, and some times it was not £3. That was a large saving.
Mr. P. McMahon—That is the saving—starve the poor.
Mr. Hogan said the administration of outdoor relief by the Vice-guardians in certain cases was a disgrace. Some people were almost starved to death.
Mr. M. McMahon said great credit no doubt was due to the Vice-guardians for the way in which the seed rate was collected.
Mr. C. D. O'Connor hoped the Board would follow the Vice-guardians' example, with regard to relief.
The matter then dropped and the Board adjourned.

TRALEE BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

(From the Evening Herald.)

We would earnestly ask the Tralee Board of Guardians whether they wish to become the standing reproach to the country, and a standing argument against our fitness for self-government. Their mismanagement of poor-law affairs some few years ago, sank them into £8,000 of debt, and their affairs were in a state of chaos. The Local Government Board felt compelled, under these circumstances, to appoint a committee of inquiry to superintend them, suspending the old system and appointing two paid guardians. These gentlemen, by attention to their duty, recovered the lost ground, and lately restored the union into the hands of the ratepayers and elected guardians, with a large balance to its credit. The local guardians should surely avail themselves of such an advantageous start, and set themselves to efface the memory of past neglect and misconduct, by attending to the affairs of their union in a calm and business-like spirit. But we regret to read in the Kerry Sentinel of to-day an account, only too accurate, we fear, of a disgraceful brawl which rose—or, rather, fell—to the level of one guardian threatening to force the chairman out of the chair, and the chairman retorting that "if it came to a physical trial of strength he was prepared!" The same report shows that these gentlemen have now £3,000 worth of rates outstanding and a balance against them at the bank of £240. They would do better to control their tempers, mind their business, and try to restore the reputation of their union, rather than threaten one another with violence, and discredit the system of popular representative rule in Kerry. It is a pity that the ratepayers cannot find the spirit to clear out of the boardroom the gentlemen who are offending in this manner.

Annascaul, Friday.

(Before Captain H. Keogh, R.M., and J. F. M. Miles, Esq., M.D.)

Mrs Ellen Walsh, wife of a farmer, of Ballinobig, near Dingle, was charged at the suit of Sergeant Gilbert, of Annascaul, on behalf of the Crown, with the larceny of two parcels containing wearing apparel, the property of Miss Fitzgerald, of Annascaul.

James McKeown, railway guard, deposed that on the day of the alleged larceny, the 2nd of April, Mrs Walsh travelled from Lispolis to Bmalough cross, and, when nearing the latter station, he had asked the accused if the two parcels were hers, to which she replied in the affirmative, and that accordingly he had thrown her the two parcels when she was left the train.

For the defence,

Mr Kennedy, solicitor of Dingle, appeared.

THE RATE COLLECTORS.

Mr. E. O'Connor, in accordance with his notice of motion, moved—"That each poor rate collector be required in future to issue separate receipts for each number in his warrant, in order to guard against the practices of the late collector, Michael Quinlan, as revealed by our clerk's report on the collector's defalcations on last board day. In the event of the collector reporting that one or more numbers had not been paid where a ratepayer had paid the remaining numbers, that our clerk do write forthwith to the ratepayer in question to ascertain the truth of the collector's statement." In moving it he said he thought it necessary to guard against abuses such as occurred in the past. Probably they had a lot of excellent collectors at present, but also would come and men would go.

Chairman—And the rate will be paid for ever (laughter).

Mr. O'Connor—And something should be done to put on a check, and it was for that purpose I gave the notice of motion and propose the resolution now.

Mr. O'Donnell seconded the resolution.

Mr. Fitzgerald said the best way to guard against defalcations was to insist on having heavy securities. He thought it would be a terrible thing to insist on the collectors filling up, perhaps, one hundred receipts for a landlord for a pound or two.

Mr. O'Connor—Is there any such case existing in the union?

Chairman—Several.—Take Pound Road for instance.

Mr. Fitzgerald said he would move a direct negative.

Mr. O'D. O'Connor in seconding him said the resolution implied suspicion and doubt to their collectors. He thought they had an excellent class of honest and trustworthy collectors who should have their confidence, and in his opinion the motion should be rejected.

The Chairman said he also thought they had an excellent staff of collectors.

Mr. O'Connor—I am after stating that.

Chairman—And I think when they have ample security, and when their books are checked every fortnight you have a sufficient guarantee everything will go right.

The Clerk said so far as he understood it he saw no means which would give collectors, if dishonest, more opportunity of cheating than that resolution.

Mr. O'Connor—How is that?

Clerk—It gives them an opportunity of having one hundred blank receipts in their pockets if they saw fit.

Mr. Brown—If there is a regular attendance on the part of the collectors Mr. O'Connor might see his way to withdraw.

Subsequently Mr. O'Connor withdrew his resolution, and the matter ended.

The Board soon after adjourned.

CADREY'S Cocoa is entitled to be Absolutely Pure and to rank among the most perfect of prepared Cocos.—The Analyst.

sited me to give him some coal, and was unable to use the coal he was getting. I asked again that the Tralee people I asked for tenders to supply 30 tons. I reply to that we have no tender. You will remember who was the principal cause of having that tender opened.

Mr. Eoright—I'll leave it to the chairman. Mr. Griffin says is untrue, that it came from you.

The Chairman—I opened it before Mr. Griffin.

Mr. Eoright—You will remember I was discomfited when he saw from whom the tender was.

Mr. Collins—No wonder he would be surprised.

Mr. Griffin (to Mr. Eoright)—Don't insult me. I will not allow you.

Mr. Eoright—Won't allow me? I never insult anybody. If I have said anything insulting I'd withdraw it.

The Chairman—I'd rather cut the matter short.

Mr. Eoright—I am done. Have I said anything discomfiting?

Mr. Griffin—You went to insinuate that I was displeased when I knew who the tender was from. Did I know from whom the tender was? You, Mr. Chairman, say you had a document, and I said put it before the board.

Mr. Eoright—The moment he discovered who the tender was from he was upset.

The Chairman—The person they refer to is partly concerned.

Mr. Griffin—They are equally concerned. The board has done what is illegal and wrong in consequence of not having invited tenders from Tralee. I am here now to have the ratepayers mulcted. I say you to receive any amendment to my resolution.

Mr. Eoright—I have time enough. The principle here is economy, and all that sort of thing.

Mr. Griffin—Here are personalities.

Mr. Eoright—I pay one-eleventh, and if you except Lord Lutonell, one-eighth of the rates, and how much does my account pay?

Mr. Griffin—I was told before that I hadn't a house or a home, and I ask you Mr. Chairman, if he is not out of order. If he goes into personalities I'll go into them too. He wants to make out that I am the bosom friend of Mr. Foley. I will discharge my duty to the ratepayers. I have fect accord with Mr. M'Cowen that you should assert your independence, and that is that you have a right to be elected to the Board, but I hope the men who have gathered here to-day will have it go forth that their interests will not be neglected by themselves. (Mr. M'Cowen is a member of the Harbour Board, and may be within the right. I know nothing about that, but I do assert that in this Board to-day—)

Chairman—Do you rise to propose a candidate?

Mr. Fitzgerald—I do. I rose for that purpose. I do assert that it is proper, and in the interest of a friend, I say it is proper for Mr. Latchford to do what he did. He had a vote in the Harbour Board, irrespective of his position as chairman of this Board, and therefore this Board was disfranchised in consequence of his holding the dual position. I say Mr. Latchford acted the gentleman in doing what he did. I have pleasure in proposing Mr. William O'Donnell. I need say nothing, or tell you who he is. There are many gentlemen here who sat on the Board with his father, and no more respected man sat there during his time, or no more influential countryman, and his son stands here to-day on the same principles.

Mr. James Baily seconded the proposition.

For Mr. Roche—Messrs. T. M'Ellistirm, T. Flaherty, D. M'Mahon, T. Regan, J. Savage, E. Corcoran, J. M'Sweeney, M. K. Hogan, J. Kearney, P. Curtin, H. Boyle, J. Griffin, N. Rice, M. Brosnan, T. J. O'Connor, G. Fleming, E. O'Connor, T. Keane, C. O'Connor, Lieut.-col. Rowan, J.P.; R. M'Cowen, J.P.; J. G. Hewson, J.P.; J. Roche, J.P.; M. S. Reidy, J.P.; M. J. Kelliher, J.P.; R. Roche, J.P.; F. O'Sullivan, J.P.; M. R. L. Marshall, J.P.; Capt. Magill, J.P.—29.

For Mr. O'Donnell—Messrs. G. Fitzgerald, (A), R. M'Ellistirm, T. O'Connor, (C), M. S. O'Sullivan, M. Murphy, J. K. O'Connor, W. O'Donnell, G. Fitzgerald, (D), G. M'Auliffe, E. King, C. Slattery, J. Daily, H. Braen, T. O'Neill, J. Baily, F. M'Donnell, L. Quinlan, T. Egan, A. Blennerhassett, J.P.; J. C. D. Hurly, J.P.; R. Latchford, J.P.; W. Spring, J.P.; Capt. W. T. Nelson, J.P.; M. M'Mahon, J.P.; G. F. French, J.P.; E. A. Kinnear, J.P.; F. C. Sandes, J.P.; J. C. Hurley, J.P.; and E. R. Murphy, J.P.—29.

When the clerk announced that the voting resulted in a tie there was considerable cheering and uproar.

The Chairman, rising, said—Gentlemen, I will never trouble this Board again to ask for a vote, and it was only the insult offered to me by the late Chairman which brought me here to-day (hear, hear). I would never have asked this Board to go to one minute's trouble only for the slur and insult—

Mr. Fitzgerald—Mr. Chairman, I don't think this is fair.

Chairman—I am in the chair.

Mr. Fitzgerald—I know you are.

Chairman—I will not be dictated to by you.

Mr. Fitzgerald—Neither will we be dictated to by you.

Mr. Murphy, J.P. (to the Chairman)—You must conduct yourself.

Several Guardians—Chair, chair, order, order.

Mr. Kearney—He is in the chair, and he will hold it (uproar).

Chairman—You are not to dictate to me, Mr. Fitzgerald. I think it right, gentlemen, as you have come here to-day, I know at great inconvenience, to vindicate my position before the Board, to inform you of the exact position of affairs. I was not informed that there was to be a vacancy here until the very day of Mr. Latchford's resignation. I had

Mr. Latchford—Now, sir, the state of the case stands this way—altogether different from what I have been representing. My Mr. Roche may have it in his hand from a letter from me, but I have myself.

Chairman—Might I ask, sir—

Mr. Latchford—Excuse me.

Chairman—My interruption is pertinent—

Mr. Latchford—I beg your pardon, there is no pertinence.

Chairman—I beg your pardon, Mr. Latchford, what I said was that my interruption was pertinent. I ask was that letter marked private?

Mr. Latchford—Private or not private, under the circumstances I must prove that the statement you made is not true.

Mr. Roche—Is the letter marked private?

Mr. Latchford—No, sir, it is not marked private.

Chairman—All right.

Mr. Latchford—It is a copy of a letter I wrote to you which you were kind enough to send back to me again. You asked if the correspondence in connection with this ought to be published, and I had no objection if you would allow me have a copy, as I made some statements about relatives of yours and friends of my own which I did not care to have go before the public. Otherwise I had not the slightest objection that every line would be published. On the 31st December I gave it to be understood, and I wrote to my friend—I will still call him my friend, for, notwithstanding the difference to-day, I yield to no man in my respect for Mr. Roche, and tomorrow, if he should be chairman, no one in this room would be more determined to give him more loyal support than the man who has the honor to address you. On the 31st December I determined to resign the chair. That was on a Tuesday. The following day was New Year's Day, and before I resigned I fully determined that Mr. Jeremiah Roche should be the first man to know of my intention to resign. With that object in my own office I sat down and penned him the following letter, and while penning it there were two gentlemen in my office who are prepared to prove it if necessary. Here is the letter. "My Dear Roche I have been thinking of resigning the chair of the Tralee Board of Guardians, and don't wish to take the Guardians or the public by surprise. With that view I intend handing in my resignation to-morrow so that the guardians may have sufficient notice, as the election for my successor will not take place possibly before to-morrow fortnight. I was very anxious to see you on Saturday to consult you about the matter. I hope to see you on Saturday next (D.V.) as we are very anxious that you should start."

The further reading of the letter was here interrupted by a remark from Mr. M'Cowen which was not audible to the reporters.

Mr. Latchford (continuing) said—Mr. Chairman, I will feel very much obliged if you will allow me give this, very serious matter—this dreadful attack—this serious attack upon me proper explanation. Some gentlemen may sneer at it, but in spite of their sneers, I tell you I will explain the matter thoroughly, and you will acquit me of having done anything unmanly, or anything unbecomingly (hear, hear). The following day, as Wednesday, and I resigned the chair. I expected the honour of a reply from Mr. Roche on Wednesday or Thursday, but I had not a reply on either day. On Thursday, at one o'clock, I saw a telegram from Mr. Roche to a gentleman in Tralee, saying he was standing for the chair and was determined to proceed with his canvass. Of course, when I saw that telegram I knew there was no use in waiting till the following Saturday to know what his intentions were with regard to the chair. That I already knew by the telegram, which was handed to me by a friend of his. When I read that telegram I at once went to work in the interest of Mr.

ter). The Chairman—At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Roche was called over. Chairman—Well, gentlemen, here I am, and here I will stay. The matter then ended.

THE DEATH OF MRS. ROCHE.

Mr. Eugene O'Connor proposed the following resolution:—

"That this board regret to have heard of the death of Mrs. Maurice Roche, Ballyp. month, and beg to tender to her son, Jeremiah Roche, Esq., J.P., the respected vice-chairman of this board, the expression of our sincere sympathy."

Mr. J. Kearney seconded the resolution, which was passed unanimously.

Mr. Roche thanked the guardians, and said were it not for what had transpired that day he would not have been present at that meeting at all.

TRALEE YOUNG IRELAND SOCIETY.

A special general meeting of the above society will be held in their rooms, Upper Castle Street, on Sunday next, 19th January, to transact some business of importance. All members are earnestly requested to attend. Chair to be taken at half-past one.

Emerald off, but the latter was scarcely secured when the Gowrie was driven before the gale, and went ashore at the Kerries.
It was eleven o'clock when Mr. McCowen and his men were got off. Meantime Mr.
Farmer and the two men with him were caught with the high tide on the pier, and were forced to cling on to the mooring posts, where they remained for three hours with the sea washing over them. When rescued they were in an exhausted condition. They were taken to the Loch house, where restoratives were administered. Had help been delayed a few minutes longer, the three men would, undoubtedly have perished. A handsome yacht, the property of Mr. Charles Moroney, dragged her anchor, and was smashed to pieces on the rocks.

...and in 81 gave him back the farm and left him stock and all on it. He was evicted that year, but put back on the farm. The farm then went derelict. In 1891 he was evicted secondly and I then took the farm as a grazing farm, and kept him and his family in the house and gave them
free house and 1000 lbs. of meat, rates, and charges for the farm. When I saw the way the agent and his agent two of the agents have either or Carroll as tenants. Carroll's son went to ask for the land, and the agent (Mr. Leahy) told him he would give it to him provided I would not take it, and if he lodged a year's rent and gave security. I had supported Carroll and his family for four years. I had spent a good deal of money on the farm, and paid about £168 debts for them, and when I saw that they could not pay for the farm I took it myself as a yearly tenant to get my own out of it.
Even after I was declared tenant I offered them the farm back if they redeemed it.

Questioned as to whether the taking of the farm caused any ill-feeling against him he said the Carrolls threatened to assault him if he did not give it up.

District-inspector Holmes, Tralee; Head-constable Cusack and a number of men from Tralee were out all day on Thursday investigating the matter, as were also Sergeant M'Birney, Causeway, together with some men from Killahan and Ardert. No arrests have as yet been made. Strangely enough, though the ground inside the fence where the perpetrators of the outrage were ambushed is tillage land, no traces of footsteps were discernable, but this was probably due to the heavy rains of Wednesday night.

KILLARNEY RACES.

On Monday a public meeting called by the subscribers and supporters of the above was held in the Town Hall for the purpose of considering whether a meet would be held this year, and if so to appoint a suitable committee. Amongst those present were—
Dr. Hickson, J.P.; Messrs. F. E. Maher, Manager Munster and Leinster Bank; M.
O'Sullivan, draper; Jeremiah O'Leary, do; J. Kelly, T.C. do; P. Huggard, T.C.; Jeremiah Hayes, T.C.; T. T. O'Connor, T.C.; P. Foley, chemist; T. J. Lyne, D. Hurley,
M. Reidy, etc.

On the motion of Mr. Kelly, Mr. O'Sallivan was moved to the chair, and on the motion of the same gentleman it was agreed to hold a race meeting this year, but the date was not fixed.

The following committee was elected, viz—Messrs. P. D. Foley, P. Huggard, T.C.; J. Kelly, T. J. Lyne, J. Hayes, T.C.; M.
O'Sullivan, T. E. Maher, Jerome O'Leary,
M. Reidy, M. Moriarty, J. G. O'Donoghue,
D. Guerin, T.C. and V. Turner, Manager
National Bank.

On the motion of Mr. O'Kelly, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, Messrs. Huggard and Reidy were re-elected treasurers, and Mr.
Kelleher, secretary.

A meeting of the committee will be held at an early date to make the preliminary arrangements in connection with the races.
It is to be hoped that sufficient support will be forthcoming this year to enable the committee to have a two days' meet.

Having since learned privately from an equally reliable source that Mr. and Mrs. Roche have but agreed to live apart by arrangement with alternate custody of the children, we give this version by way of amendment for what appeared in "Gossip," clipped as it was in good faith from the Independent, which relied for its information on Thom's Directory.

EAST KERRY ELECTION.

The Hon. J. E. Roche and Capt. John MacGillycuddy were on Tuesday nominated for this division. Both candidates are pursuing an active canvass and holding meetings. The polling will take place on Friday next. Mr. Roche will address a meeting of his supporters in the Market Square, Killarney, on Wednesday, and Captain MacGillycuddy will address a meeting in Ballymacelligott on the same day.

TRALEE POOR LAW ELECTIONS.

The following is the result of the elections in the contested divisions of the Tralee Union. The official figures have not been announced, but the majorities were in each case exceptionally small:—

Blennerville—Richard Savage defeated Patrick Galyin by 4 votes. John Savage (outgoing guardian) retired.

Baurtegan—Thomas Moynihan defeated Timothy Regan (outgoing guardian) by 6 votes.

Booleens—Timothy McCarthy defeated Edmund Corcoran (outgoing guardian) by one vote.

Doon—Garrett Fitzgerald (outgoing guardian) defeated Thomas Trant by one vote. Election questioned.

Kiltallagh—John Daly (outgoing guardian) defeated Garrett Dowd by 10 votes.

Mounteagle—Thomas Walsh (outgoing guardian) defeated Cornelius Reilly by four votes. Election questioned.

Nohoval—Jeremiah Carmody defeated Henry Breen (outgoing guardian) by one vote.

Tubrid—George J. Rice defeated Thomas Egan (outgoing guardian) by 1 vote.

Tralee—John O'Donnell, James Baily, F. McDonnell and Laurence Quinlan were returned.

PRUDENTIAL ASSURANCE COMPANY

We publish in our advertising columns the annual report of the Prudential Assurance Company, Limited. The report and the figures not only prove the prosperity of the Company to be steady, but vastly increasing: The result of last year's operations was a surplus of £2,702,985, which has increased the Company's assets to the gigantic total of £23,915,890. We refer our readers to the figures in the report, which speak for themselves.

CORK CHEMICAL & DRUG COMPANY, LIMITED.

The list of applications for the preference shares offered by this company closed on Wednesday at the Munster and Leinster Bank. The number offered was 3,400 5 per cent Preference shares of £5 each, amounting to £17,000. It was plain from the outset that such was the confidence in the solidity of the business done by Messrs. Wm. Harrington & Son, Limited, the old company, dog, Kingdon, ran through everything and came out a great winner at Cork and Lismore, K. J. was sponsored at the occasion by Mr. C. Hickey.

In connection with the O'Connell bankruptcy case, a letter from Arizona in Tralee, his first wife, has just learned that Mr. James Leslie was made by the judge a misdemeanant of the first division. This privilege will entitle him to any comforts, which, in ordinary circumstances, he would not enjoy. Mrs. Leslie has the sympathy of her neighbours and the people of Tralee, visited her husband last week, and he was also visited by Messrs. McCowen, Donovan, Latchford, Murphy and Leonard, J.P.'s, and by other friends who were entitled (two together) to see him for a quarter of an hour each day. Mr. Leslie's relatives intend to present a memorial to the Lord Lieutenant to reduce the sentence, and the petition has been signed by the High Sheriff and other influential gentlemen.

The traffic receipts of the Tralee and Dingle railway for the week ending 14th March '96, show an increase of £1 11s. 1d., as compared with the corresponding week of last year.

The celebrated "Canoe Indians" are about the lowest type of savages; lower even than the earth-eating "Diggers" of the Californian peninsula. Though there are thousands of them, they spend daylight on the water, each family occupying its canoe—returning to shore only when darkness falls. Then they build a fire upon the rocks, and huddle round it in the most affectionate manner to keep themselves from freezing. At the bottom of each boat, near the centre, some earth is piled, and on it a small fire of sticks is kept burning for the partial comfort of the occupants. Uglier looking mortals than these people never breathed. They are a rusty iron colour, with flat noses, high cheek bones, enormous chins and jaws, crocodile mouths, filled with long, yellow teeth, no forehead, extremely wide, flat faces, over which coarse hair falls in matted lumps; in figure squatly and round-shouldered. Though big-headed and round-bodied, their legs are abnormally short, slender, and crooked—a physical deformity probably due to spending most of their lives squatted in canoes. Their fishing lines are made of grass, their hooks of fish-bones, and their knives of the sharpened shells of mussels.

Candied peel is so very cheap now that I am sure no one will go to the trouble of candying it for themselves. Still, some people may like to know how it is done. Soak the orange peel, which should be cut in as large and symmetrical pieces as possible, and scraped clear of all pulp, in a basin of salted water for a week or more; then they should be drained and boiled for half an hour in a thin syrup of one pound of sugar to every quart of water. In another saucepan have two pounds of sugar to about a pint of water, and stir it over the fire until it becomes a very thick syrup; at the end of half an hour put the orange peel into this syrup and boil until the sugar candies on it. Then take it out and put the pieces of peel separately on a sieve and dry in a cool oven. When they are dry, they should be put in wide-mouthed bottles securely corked.

Mme. de Jouvenel, of Paris, claims that three things to-day militate against vocal beauty and its durability. In the first place, women sing while too young. Growth does not cease till twenty-four to twenty-five. All that a woman sends forth from herself before that time cuts off just so much from either brilliancy or endurance. The larynx is not developed till 25. All exertion, especially undue exertion, takes so much from the value of that organ later on. Then, too, singers now, especially girl students, all sing out too much and too long. Besides these things, she says, the eating of much meat is detrimental to the voice.

The Irish Land Bill is fully drafted, and James Flaherty defended. Complainant said the parties were drunk and asked James for his name and refused and tried to "butt" him with head. Complainant caught him, and James put his hands around his legs and lay him down. His brother, John, then came up and began dragging complainant around. In the end James Flaherty's coat and waistcoat came off and he was told to let him go. Several times he tried to strike, and in the scuffle his head was torn off. James Flaherty's conduct was very bad.

The Bench sent James Flaherty to prison for one month, and John Flaherty Michael O'Brien were fined 21s. each.

CHARGE OF STEALING A SHAWL.

Gerald Fitzgibbon, a mason, was brought up in custody, charged with stealing on 10th March, a shawl, the property Catherine Ashcroft, a servant girl, and assault.

Head-constable Cusack prosecuted.

Catherine Ashcroft said on this evening she was going into Mr. Tackaberry's house in Edward-street when she was struck the head with a stone. She ran into the leaving her shawl in the hall, and when returned the shawl was gone.

Constable Herne said he charged prisoner on this evening. At first he declared all knowledge of the affair, but subsequently admitted striking the girl, and taking shawl and throwing it into Mr. McCowen's garden. It was subsequently found the Prisoner said the girl was in the habit of following him about annoying him.

He was ordered to find bail for his good behaviour in future, or go to jail for months with hard labour.

DRUNK ON LICENSED PREMISES.

Patrick Lawlor was fined 2s 6d for being drunk on licensed premises in Rock-street.

CRUELTY TO A DONKEY.

Constable Salmon charged John Ba of Anabeg, with working a donkey while was suffering from a sore breast.

Defendant, who is a very poor man, fined 1s only, as it was stated he had to sell the donkey for a shilling.

LARCENY OF MONEY.

A man named Patrick Brick pleaded guilty to the larceny of a sum of £1 18 9d, the money of Eily Maginath, a servant in the employ of Mrs. Hayes of Rock Street.

Constable Maginn said the accused took the money from the house where the girl lived, and afterwards purchased clothes with it.

Head-Constable Cusack said the money was part of a sum sent to the girl to help to emigrate.

Prisoner was sent to jail for one month.

LARCENY OF EGGS.

A woman named Elizabeth Lynch brought up charged with the larceny of three dozen hen-eggs, the property of a woman named Johanna Creagh.

Head-Constable Cusack prosecuted.

Mrs. Creagh said she was in the house with Mrs. Howard in Tralee and left the egg on an apron near the door. While she was gaged putting potatoes in a sack a woman came in, and, taking the eggs, disappeared with them.

Mrs. Howard said she saw the prisoner coming into the house, and soon after left they missed the eggs.

Prisoner said she was drunk that day; did not remember taking the eggs.

Acting-sergeant M'Dermott said he found the accused drunk in a house in Mary-street and when charged she said she did not take the eggs or apron. No trace of them was found.

She was sent to prison for two months with hard labour.

TRANSFER OF LICENCE.

On the application of Mr. J. M. Murphy, solicitor, a transfer of the spirit licence held by the late Mr. M. Harty, Bridge-street, was granted to his widow.

ASSAULT.

A young man named Patrick McNamara was brought up charged on information with assaulting his father on 30th Dec.

evidently savoured too much of Home Rule to be agreeable to the political polates of the majority of the Board as then constituted. Perhaps the time is ripe for another such motion. There is another very important matter in connection with the industry which demands attention, and that is the incalculable advantages which would be conferred on the community by the construction of a bridge over the Cashen river. Its advantages would be numerous. It would bring the fishermen into closer communication with Ballybunion, the nearest railway station and telegraph office; and it would give them exceptional facilities for cultivating little plots of lands which they hold on the con-acre system in Ballyeagh. At present the communication with Ballybunion is defective and not always possible. The facilities for exporting fish to the English markets badly require improvement. At present the fish are carted to Lixnaw a distance of seven miles. This mode of transit is slow and injurious to such perishable fish as salmon. Their marketable value is as a consequence decreased to an appreciable extent. To cultivate their little plots of land in Ballyeagh the fishermen have to go a round of five or six miles, whereas if a bridge was constructed across the river the distance would not be one-fifth as great. When the Shannon is rough it is not possible for the men with their frail boats to cross the Cashen bar with safety. If the bridge was constructed the boats could be easily carried to the sea. About half a mile from the mouth of the Cashen there are two embankments which would form natural foundations for a bridge. At the point to which reference is made the river is but thirty yards wide, with such natural advantages the bridge could easily be constructed, and at moderate costs.

The matter, however, which requires most immediate attention is the removal of the sand bank which has accumulated near mouth of the river as a result of the Cashen Drainage Board. This could be accomplished at the trifling outlay of £200 by cutting a channel through the bank. If the sands were lifted the powerful currents which prevail near the mouth of the river would draw them into the Shannon. In fact there is no doubt that the currents will effect this result in the course of time, but before this is accomplished generations must necessarily elapse. The beneficial effects of the currents in this direction are retarded by an old hulk which prevents the current operating in its full force on the sands. The Drainage Board invited tenders for the sale of the hulk in October, '95, but it seems no offers were received. The hulk is a nuisance in its present position, and in the summer months dangerous to the health of the community. As it answers no useful purpose, and is not exactly an ornament, it might be removed. If it were removed, and a steam dredger employed in lifting the sands, the embankment would be destroyed in a fortnight, and the bed would be in good condition for next year's fishing. The clearing of the bed is of the greatest importance, and does not admit of delay. The open seasons next demand attention. Then the restoration of the Shannon estuary to the Cashen Fishery, and the construction of a bridge over the Cashen River require serious consideration. If the grievances here pointed out were remedied, and the suggestions contained in the article carried into effect, and if the men were provided with boats to enable them to fish on their own

MR. HARRINGTON'S UNITY PROPOSALS.

LETTER FROM DR. J. G. FITZGERALD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE FREEMAN.

Cosmopolitan Hotel,
Nice, 1st March, '97.

DEAR SIR—I trust you will favour me with a small space that I may say a few words upon the National crisis which has at last been laid bare by the very candid speech of Mr. Harrington at the National League on the 23rd.

As one of Mr. Parnell's colleagues who defended him to the last, I rejoice that the hollow sham of Redmondism, as practised during the last five years under the cover of Mr. Parnell's name and principles, has been exploded and exposed, and that any Parnellites or Nationalists in the country who still believe that Parnellism or Redmondism are, or ever have been, one and the same thing, will now be undeceived.

Mr. Harrington asks, "Where are Mr. Parnell's old colleagues?" "Well, we are all alive, but some of us have retired into that private station which, under the circumstances, has since become the "place of honour," but speaking for myself, I assure him I will always be ready to take my part in the fight as soon as he can show me that a united National movement is in progress for Ireland. The very few men who really fought with Mr. Parnell, when he was alive, and fighting for his life, and who refrained from placing their resignations in his hands, could not so far forget their nationality when Mr. Parnell was dead as to join Mr. Chamberlain and the English brewers in defeating the cause of Ireland. They could not enter into a combination to cajole the Irish people in order to aggrandise a family party who have now, fortunately for Ireland, fallen into the plight which Mr. Harrington describes.

The truth is, as far as Parliamentary representation is concerned, there has been no such thing as Parnellism since immediately after Mr. Parnell's death. By assisting the Liberal Government to office and supporting that Government for two years, during which period Home Rule was defeated in England (and this without lifting a finger in defence of Mr. Parnell's lifelong work) the Redmonite Party cut from under their feet the last plank upon which Parnellism stood, and the civil war in Ireland has been kept up for no other purpose whatever but as a support to a small body of professional politicians, who to-day loudly proclaim in the name of Mr. Parnell that they cannot combine with the men who differed from them in Room 15, while to-morrow they take to their bosom the gentleman who supplied the funds to write the "Stop Thief" article, and on the following day set up for a National constituency a gentleman who told us in his first speech that Mr. Parnell had refused even under the weighty influence of the late Mr. John Boyle O'Reilly to touch him politically with a forty foot rod.

The fact is, the farce is played out, and it is to Mr. Harrington's credit that he cannot stand it any longer. Mr. Harrington knows that whoever was a Nationalist before Mr. Parnell's misfortune is a Nationalist now, but those who were always Tories and Unionists in disguise will be found giving their assistance and support to Mr. Horace Plunket and the English brewers to carry out Mr. Chamberlain's policy in Ireland, and bribe the Irish people out of their National sentiments, while the Na-

KILLARNEY.

TWO LADY CANDIDATES.

In all cases the sitting guardians have been nominated, and there are no less than thirteen contests, quite an unprecedented number. There are two lady candidates for Killarney, namely—Mrs. Leonard, and Mrs. Moore. With the exception of Killarney, the contests do not appear to be associated with political principles.

The contest in Killarney promises to be the most exciting contest, as the Nationalists have put forward four "good men and true," who they mean to return, despite all opposition.

At two o'clock, Mr. P. Casey, as returning officer, announced the following nominations:—
Aghadoe—Wm. Burke.

TRALEE V. BALLYMACCELLIGOTT.

The above match was played in the Tralee Sports Ground on Sunday. The weather was generally favorable, but the ground was in a shocking condition—the worst we have ever seen—one particular portion being designated the “Moving Bog.” It certainly required enthusiasm of a high order to play under such circumstances, but the sporting teams of Tralee and Ballymacelligott laughed at all obstacles and played a splendid game under apparently impossible circumstances. Several of the scrimmages were very exciting, and on the other hand a good deal of merriment was occasioned by the involuntary sprawling of many of the teams in pools of water and piles of mud. From the outset it was plain that Tralee had the visitors at their mercy, and the score, 1 goal and 9 points to nil, shows that the teams were very unevenly matched. The Ballymacelligott men, however, took their defeat like men and we hope to see them ere long making better records.

Subjoined are the names of the winning team—J. Connell (captain), J. Gorman, T. Gorman, T. Quinlan, P. Conway, T. Slattery, P. Courtnane, E. Mullins, M. Barry, M. Pender, R. Gorham, M. Fleming, J. Guerin, M. Pender, M. Kelliher, W. Ferris, E. Hanafin.

The Killarney team were also booked to meet Irremore, but the former did not turn up.

In justice to the Killarney men, however, it must be stated that on a former occasion, when they drove over in most inclement weather, their opponents did not put in an appearance.

TRALEE TOWN'S IMPROVEMENT COURT—MONDAY.

(Before Major Dease, R.M., and Mr. E. R. Murphy, J.P.)

DRUNKENNESS.

Jeremiah Savage, for drunkenness was fined 10s. 6d.

Patrick Hennessy was fined 10s. 6d. for drunkenness.

Same defendant was summoned at the suit of District-Inspector Ball for indecent behaviour, and he was fined 7s. 6d.

Hanoria Tobin for being drunk and disorderly was fined 10s. 6d.

Bartholomew Tuomey was fined 10s. 6d. for a like offence.

Thomas Dennehy for drunkenness was fined 2s. 6d. Second offence.

TRALEE PETTY SESSIONS.

(Before Colonel Rowan, presiding; Major Dease, R.M.; W. Hill, E. R. Murphy, and J. Leonard, J.P's.)

TRESPASS.

Michael Scanlon summoned Thomas Brosnan for the trespass of two goats on his lands.

Defendant said the fences were in fault.

Colonel Rowan said defendant should prevent trespass, and fined him 1s. in each case.

but witness ran after him and succeeded in catching him.

Mahony was sent to jail for fourteen days with hard labour.

Curran having made some remark,

Accused—You can do no more now. ‘A Castleland boy for it (laughter).

DINGLE PETTY SESSIONS.

The above Petty Sessions were held on Friday, before Major Dease, R.M., and Mr. R. Latchford, J.P.

DRUNKENNESS.

Several parties were summoned for drunkenness, and nominal fines were imposed in each case.

A young man named John Lyons was charged with drunkenness. Defendant was also charged with being disorderly and resisting arrest. He was fined 2s. 6d. for the first offence, and 10s. 6d. for the second.

WANDERING ANIMALS.

Daniel Kavanagh for allowing his horse wander on the public street was fined 2s. 6d.

Several other parties were charged by Constable M. Cormack with similar offences and were fined sums varying from 1s to 10s.

LICENSING ACT.

John Connor, publican, Main Street, was charged with a breach of the Licensing Act on Sunday, 27th February.

Head-constable O'Sullivan prosecuted, and Mr. John Kennedy, solr, defended.

Sergeant Doherty stated that about half-past nine on the night in question he saw two men enter the licensed premises of Mr O'Connor; when he entered the house the parties had left; he found traces of porter in the glasses on the bar, and one of the glasses was filled with porter; there was a candle apparently after being extinguished in the bar; the only persons on the premises at the time were two sisters of the defendant.

For the defence, Miss O'Connor was examined, and admitted supplying parties with drink, but without the knowledge or consent of her brother; she supplied her three cousins with drink.

Cross-examined—She did not know how many parties besides her cousins were on the premises that night; she did not think it was fair to tell any of their names.

In reply to Major Dease,

The Head-constable said the house was very well conducted, and as the offence was admitted he would not press for a heavy penalty.

Defendant was fined £1, not to be endorsed, and the two men who were seen entering the premises were fined 5s each. Adjourned.

DINGLE BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

At the usual meeting of the above board, the only guardians in attendance were Lord Ventry and John Sullivan, and the meeting had to be adjourned.
